888,197 PAID ST. LOUIS AIR MAIL LINE IN 1927

Figures Given Out in Washington; Letters Being Received, 'Hold for Lindbergh Flight.'

A total of $88,197 was paid by the Postoffice Department to the Robertson Aircraft Corporation during 1927 for carrying the mail between Chicago and St. Louis. It was stated today in Washington.

Second Assistant Postmaster General Glover had declared before the House Appropriations Committee several days ago that six of the 15 contract air mail routes were making profits, but the Postoffice Department declined yesterday to say which were the profit-making ones.

Divided as to months, the gross revenue for the St. Louis-Chicago mail line is as follows: January, $9,729; February, $5,326; March, $9,729; April, $6,078; May, $5,980; June, $9,740; July, $7,410; August, $5,829; September, $4,932; October, $7,756; November, $6,473; December, $7,113.

A substantial preliminary report is reported by the carrying company to its campaign to insure a heavy load of mail for Col. Lindbergh when he flies northward over his old route on Feb. 20. More than 700 pounds already has been pledged, according to Frank H. Robertson, president of the company.

Letters to be carried by the trans-Atlantic flyer and mailed in advance should be marked, "Hold for Lindbergh Flight." Mail for the flight may be dropped into any mail box. Letters posted for the regular delivery on Feb. 20 will be marked with the special Lindbergh cancellation stamp just as are the letters especially marked by their senders for the flight.

Many civic organizations are preparing special consignments of mail for the flight, among them the City Club, which will turn over to Postmaster Michener today a sheet of letters bearing greetings from the club to every City Club in the United States.

SUSPECT SOUGHT FOR MURDER AT HOME BREW PARTY

SLAIN WHILE HE

SLEPT ON FLOOR
Earl Carroll and Wife, at Whose Home Murder Occurred, Are Held With Woman Boarder.

Two women and a man are held, and another man is being sought, in the investigation of the killing of Lee Stout, an ice cream wagon driver, whose body was found early yesterday in an alley in the rear of 1306 Sarsfield street.

Stout had been shot through the head. He was 37 years old, and resided at 1112 North Sixteenth street. Since separating from his wife three weeks ago, he had been on a drinking spree.

Poles learned there had been a home-brew party at 1306 Sarsfield place, half a block from where the body was found. Mrs. Mammie Carroll, who lives with her husband, Earl Carroll, and their three children, and Stout and a friend, Robert Cooper, came there Saturday night and quarreled between drinks. Finally Cooper stretched himself across a bed, and Stout lay down on the floor.

Stout made an offensive remark about Cooper and Mrs. Carroll, according to the letter. Mrs. Carroll said Cooper then obtained a revolver from his coat, walked over to Stout, still on the floor, pressed the revolver to his head, and pulled the trigger.

Cooper and Carroll, a bystander during the quarrel, then carried Stout's body from the house. Mrs. Carroll said she added that Cooper returned and warned everyone to say nothing of the shooting. Cooper is being sought today at the home of a friend. He denied having helped Cooper carry the body from the house. He said he saw Cooper with a revolver, but did not see the shooting, as he was asleep on the floor beside Stout. Carroll, his wife and a boarder, Mrs. Nora Kane, are held.

Mrs. Carroll's three children, six Mrs. Kane's two were in the house at the time of the shooting. Earl Carroll Jr., 7 years old, said he peeked through a keyhole and saw Cooper shoot Stout. Elizabeth Carroll, 14, said she saw Cooper get his revolver and then heard a shot.

POWER INQUIRY

have stretched its powers in that manner. Walsh explained that interstate business might be carried on either by the sale of power or the sale of securities. Latest statistics, he said, indicated that 3 per cent of the electric energy generated in the United States was carried across state lines.

"And there are many corporations," he added, "that market their securities across state lines through advertising, through solicitations and on the stock exchanges. The Federal courts have held that this comes within the meaning of interstate business."

Walsh declared he vigorously against the committee amendment, which restricts the investigation of campaign contributions to money and in presidential and congressional elections. He announced that he would seek to have that amendment stricken out.

"There is only one purpose in calling the committee to go into campaign funds," he said. "And that is to ascertain whether, as charged, state regulatory commissions have been brought under the influence of public utility corporations."

Unreasonable Rates Charged.
Walsh declared he had spent abundant evidence will be heard from men eminent in finance and economics, that unreasonable rates are being charged for electric power, rates beyond the amount needed to secure a good deal of capital for the enterprises. The question arises whether the state commissions are equal to their task. The Tax and Massachusetts have shown they are unable to function completely. Other state commissions are known to be struggling with the problems of holding companies.

"It is not so much concerned about contributions to presidential and congressional elections. I have no desire to go over the ground that has already been so well covered by other committees. But I am particularly concerned to know how much influence the power groups have exerted over the election of state regulatory bodies or over the appointment of powers to which they owe their existence."

Letters have come to me from various states telling of the efforts of great power combinations to get control of municipal plants. Some of these election is held to determine whether a municipal enterprise shall be sold, and money is

Texas Heiress Sues for Divorce

MRS. ANN BURNETT WAGGONER, granddaughter and heiress of Burk Burnett, wealthy oil man and rancher of Texas, has filed suit for divorce against Guy L. Waggoner, who is a son of a wealthy cattleman. The suit was filed at Fort Worth. They were married in 1922.

spent freely to determine the result. "At the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Committee on the pending resolution, there were representatives of the American Manufacturers' Association, of the Association of State Public Service Commissioners, of the American Electric Railway Association, but there was no representative of the consumers of electrical energy, nor anyone to speak for the investor in electric power securities."

Would Protect Households.
"It is the purpose of this resolution to protect the 17,000,000 households in this country and the growing number of investors who are putting their savings in power securities. One corporation now has a whole army of solicitors peddling its securities from house to house in Washington."

"It is our duty to protect the consumer and the investor. Perhaps legislation will not be necessary. I hope it will not be necessary. Publicity may be all that is needed."

"The companies opposing the inquiry were marshalled by George B. Cortelyou. It is well known that the agents of these companies assembled here in Washington before Congress convened in December and set up spacious and luxurious quarters. They called to their headquarters experts in obtaining legislation from Congress and in defeating legislation."

They were represented before the committee by a former member of this body (former Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin), and they furnished a brief signed by 50 or 60 legal firms scattered all over the United States, attorneys for companies who are opposing this inquiry."

"Next we had representatives of the investment bankers. They told us they caused an investigation to be made of power securities and that, therefore, there was no need for an investigation by the Senate. But the investment bankers said that they dealt only in the bonds and the preferred stock of these companies and paid no attention whatever to the common stock that is dealt in generously through the usual avenues of trade."

"Then we had the American Manufacturers' Association appearing by one James A. Emery. I had thought that after the disclosures of 1913 we had seen the last of Mr. Emery, but he is still with us."

"The gentleman in charge of the lobby is Josiah T. Newcomb and his assistant is C. A. Beasley. Both of these gentlemen are associated with or are officers of the Alabama Power Co."

"The Alabama Power Co. some time ago was given by the Federal Water Power Commission the right to build a dam across the Coosa River in Alabama. Now, under the provisions of the water power act, the public has the right to take over a water power project at the end of the period for which it is leased by paying the amount that was invested in the project, less depreciation. So it is important to know how much money goes into a project and the commission when granting permits for dams always requires a detailed statement of the cost."

The Alabama Power Co. was accordingly called upon to make a report on the money it had spent on the Coosa River dam. It reported that the amount was $10,990,000. The commission sent auditors to look into the books and they reported that the entire cost of the project was a good deal less. The auditors rejected more than $2,000,000 alleged to have been spent for the construction of this project."

"Among the items rejected was $20,000 paid to Josiah T. Newcomb. Just exactly what contribution Mr. Newcomb made to the project the commission was unable to determine. It is a transaction of this character, of which the public has learned more or less that will fall under the scrutiny of the investigating committee."

Walsh declared flatly that the Federal Trade Commission had no power to make the investigation under the pending resolution. "Some years ago," he said, "a determined effort was made to amend the Federal Trade Commission act as a result the 1927-28 appropriation act it enacted the provision that no part of the money should be spent for an investigation, except when ordered by a concurrent resolution."

A concurrent resolution is one

SAILOR KILLED WHEN PARACHUTE RIPS APART

He Had Gone Up in Plane and Dropped From Altitude of 3500 Feet.

By the Associated Press.
SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 13.—Mack Spencer, a sailor from the U. S. S. California, was killed in a parachute jump here yesterday. The parachute ripped apart a moment after opening. Floyd Bowman, a professional parachute jumper, first went up and made a jump to show the sailor how it was done. Bowman's first parachute ripped in coming down and it was only an emergency parachute that saved his life.

Undaunted by Bowman's mishap, Spencer took one of the latter's parachutes, went up in a plane and at 3500 feet dropped off. After falling a thousand feet his parachute opened, but only momentarily opened his plunge before it ripped apart. 2000 CARS A DAY BY MARCH 31, SAYS FORD

After That Production Will Climb More Rapidly—Drawn Into Aviation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 13.—Approximately 1000 model A cars a day is the present production of the Ford Motor Co., and 2000 or more daily will be the output by the end of March, Henry Ford says.

"How about that new car?" Ford was asked. "Everybody wants to know when it will come along in real quantity production."

"Coming fine," Ford said. "You can't get a great plant overhauled and converted from one type of product to another in a day. It is a tremendous task to get into shape to produce it right in every detail and in great quantity."

"We are turning out approximately 1000 cars daily; we will be up to 2000 a day by the end of March according to our present schedule. After that production will be even greater."

"And we will stick to the 5-day week for employees. That schedule on the old 6-day basis of pay is working out splendidly. Of course, not all employees are now earning up to the full scale of wages. They never will. Many new employees are unskilled and few have had training in the particular kind of operations they must use in the factory. But rapidly as they prove their ability they are promoted."

In the great laboratory room of the plant, where there are Ford cars in all stages of development, stands a Ford model A taxicab, all doped up like a Christmas toy, ready to go to New York.

"I expect we will be making a lot of them later," Ford said. But his real interest for the moment was centered on the Ford airplane flyers No. 1 and No. 2, the latter the little craft in which Harry Brooks started for Miami in a non-stop flight.

"You know my real job is not in aviation at all, but I somehow get pulled deeper into it all the time. This No. 2 is a great ship and before long Harry Brooks and Otto Koppen will be making some improvements on it."

To the question as to whether such small planes would ever be used in great numbers, Ford replied: "Flying is now 90 per cent man. The plane can be made reliable and a plane of this type can be produced cheaply. If all owners of them or all pilots of such planes were Lindberghs, the world would become common."

ALL CITY OFFICES CLOSED TO MARK LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY
Exercises in Schools Commemorate 119th Anniversary Which Was Sunday.

A partial and unofficial holiday in celebration of the 119th anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birthday was observed by St. Louis today, as usual. The occasion is not a legal holiday in Missouri. Although the anniversary occurred yesterday, all city offices here were closed today.

This closing extended to the Police Courts and the state motor license bureau at City Hall. The local Courts and Merchants' Exchange also were closed, inasmuch as exchanges of New York City and Chicago suspended business for the day. It being a legal holiday in Illinois, New York and some other states. Banks, schools, state courts and offices and Federal courts and offices conducted business as usual. There were exceptions or special references to the great emancipator in many schools.

A number of societies will have Lincoln programs tonight. About 1800 youths of the Order of De Moleay, a junior Masonic society, from St. Louis and elsewhere journeyed to the tomb of Lincoln at Springfield, Ill., on their fourth annual pilgrimage.

Politicians Foresee Bitter Fight in Ohio Campaign.
By the Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13.—One of the most bitterly fought presidential primaries in Ohio's history, is predicted by two Republican factions following Secretary Herbert Hoover's announcement that he will enter the Ohio primary in opposition to United States Willis.

Charles A. Jones, secretary to Willis, said that Col. Carmi A. Thompson, the Senator's campaign manager, would be here today for a conference. Thad H. Brown, head of the Ohio-Hoover Committee, will speed up his plans for gathering the support of Republicans not in accord with the State Central Committee's endorsement of Willis. Cincinnati, a Hoover stronghold, has been the scene of an announcement that plans for a club to boost Hoover's candidacy.

Fred W. Warner, chairman of the State Central Committee, took occasion to renew his warning that the Hoover movement will "disrupt the party" and deliver the State into the hands of the Democrats next fall.

The State Chairman charged that politicians, handling Hoover's campaign, will go through the State promising all the appointment possible to swing votes to the secretary.

The names of 4900 Ohio Republicans, obtained by circulation of petitions during the last week, will form the nucleus of the Hoover-for-President organization to be extended immediately into all of the 88 counties. The organization already has formed contacts in 75 counties, it was said.

Carl Schuricht Arrives To Conduct Symphony

German Director Says He Is Eager to Begin Work, Having Heard "Very Good Things" From Molinari.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.
Carl Schuricht of Wiesbaden, Germany, the latest guest conductor to take over the much-directed St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, arrived in St. Louis Saturday afternoon.

Although Mr. Schuricht had not conversed in English for any length of time for nearly 20 years prior to his arriving in America, he spoke without difficulty and without a cumbersome accent, although occasionally he had to stop and translate a word from the German.

"I was in New York long enough to hear Toscanini, with the New York Philharmonic," he said at the Hotel Coronado. "There is genius. I do not understand how any one could say he was not of the very first rank. I also heard the Metropolitan Opera—'Coe d'Or'—but it was so hot that I had to go outside after the first act."

Molinari Praised Orchestra.
"Molinari came around to my hotel in New York and said some very good things about the orchestra here. He spoke highly of the conductor, the first desk cellist and the first desk contrabass. It is good to look forward to directing such an orchestra. I am sure we are all going to have a good time."

Asked about his work in Europe, Schuricht said he had been conducting in Wiesbaden, his home town, since 1912. The war interrupted his work, but since the war he had made appearances in Italy, Holland and Sweden, and this summer planned to conduct in Paris.

He scored what he considered the greatest success of his career when he put on Delius' "Mass of Life" in Berlin. This and his concert in Leipzig, where he conducted the Gewandhaus orchestra, were both enthusiastically received by the press and the public. In Berlin, an added touch of triumph was given to his success by the fact that a benefactor of his youth, a gentleman who had allowed him a "stipendium" for four years when he was a poor student, was present to witness it.

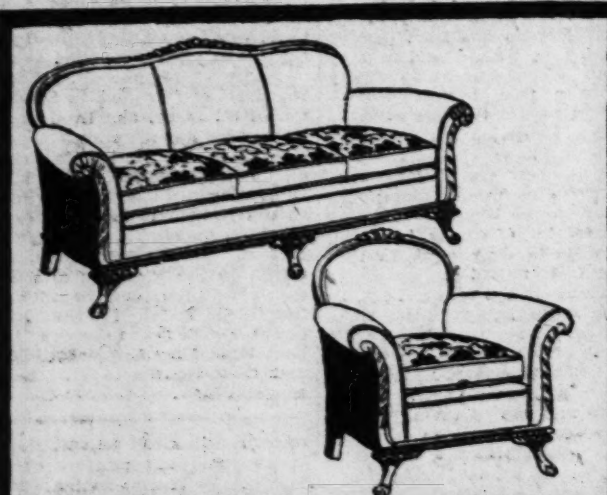

The modern composers in Germany, said Schuricht, were like the moderns everywhere. They were feeling around energetically but as yet had not worked out any principles that one could safely say could be added to the permanent store of musical achievement. Naturally, one had to give them a showing. At Wiesbaden he played the St. Louis orchestra.

More important than any modern production in the view of Schuricht was the recent performance at the Thomaskirche in Leipzig and at Dusseldorf of an unpublished work of Johann Sebastian Bach, called the "Art of the Fugue."

"There is a very interesting story connected with it," continued Schuricht. "The manuscript as it has been known for all these years was apparently scored for the clavichord (for the keyboard of the piano). It was composed by Bach two years before his death and as he was nearly blind he dictated it to his son-in-law. After Bach's death it was found no one

INSANE PRISONERS KILL TWO GUARDS; FAIL TO ESCAPE

Injure Two Other Men Before Being Subdued by Watchman at Bridge-water, Mass., Asylum.

By the Associated Press. BRIDGEWATER, Mass., Feb. 13.—A night supervisor and a night watchman were clubbed and strangled to death when five inmates of the State Hospital for the Insane here made a break for liberty early today. Two other night watchmen were injured. The dead are: Wilfred Gerrior, night watchman, and Eugene Amlaw, supervisor. The injured are John C. Harrington and Michael T. Mullen, both night watchmen, who were beaten and bound with towels by the insane men when encountered in a corridor. Their injuries are not serious.

Handicapped by the absence of eye-witnesses and by the reluctance or the inability of the inmates concerned to give a coherent story of what occurred, officials of the hospital resorted largely to conjecture to piece together the story of the affair.

Between 2 and 2:30 a. m., according to Supt. Henry A. Strawn, James Melton, an inmate, climbed through the transom of his room into a corridor. He was armed with a club improvised from the leg of a heavy oak bed. Melton is believed first to have encountered Gerrior, to have beaten him on the head with the club and then to have strangled him with a piece of cord. Then, it is thought, he lay in wait for Amlaw and disposed of him in the same manner.

Melton then seized Amlaw's keys and released four other inmates, and as the five were making their way through the maze of corridors to the front of the building they met the watchmen, Harrington and Mullen, bound them and locked them in a lavatory.

Finally they reached the door of an office in the front of the building, which was the only obstacle between them and liberty. As they tumbled with the keys to find one which would fit they were seen by another watchman, Edward Brough. He sounded an alarm, 10 guards responding. The guards were unarmed and a hand-to-hand fight without weapons ensued. The inmates were subdued and returned to their rooms.

SAYS UNEMPLOYED OF OTHER STATES FLOCK TO NEW YORK

Commissioner Hamilton to Ascertain Total Number of Jobless Visitors in Metropolis.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—An effort to determine to just what extent New York is being used as a "free soup kitchen" by the unemployed of other parts of the country will be the next step in the investigation of unemployment begun last week by State Industrial Commissioner Hamilton at the request of Gov. Smith.

The unusually large number of jobless and homeless on the Bowery has led those in charge of New York's relief work to believe that many of the city's army of unemployed drifted in from other cities.

Surveys by the relief agents along the Bowery show that approximately half of those in the daily bread lines came here from other cities. Commissioner Hamilton has decided to use the records of the municipal lodging house, which cared for 17,220 men and women in December, 1927—an increase of almost 7000 over the same month of 1926. It is intended to determine how many came to New York from other cities.

Social workers say there has been an influx from the steel mills from Pittsburgh, the coal mines of Pennsylvania and West Virginia and the textile and shoe sections of Massachusetts.

GANGSTER, TRIAL SET TODAY, HAS GONE TO PENITENTIARY

Joseph Bonmarito Has Appeal From Two-Year Term on Weapon Charge Dismissed.

When the case of Joseph Bonmarito, 22-year-old gunman of an Italian gang, was called for trial today before Circuit Judge Killoran on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, it became known that Bonmarito had entered the penitentiary Saturday to start serving a two-year sentence imposed last April after his conviction on a previous charge of carrying concealed weapons.

An appeal before the Supreme Court was dismissed Friday by his attorney, Sigmond Bass, apparently in hope of escaping trial on two other charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Judge Killoran continued the case docketed for today until tomorrow to allow the Circuit Attorney's office time to decide whether to ask for a general continuance or drop the charge.

Fred Weber of Belleville Dies. The funeral of Fred Weber, 61 years old, president of the Weber-Willman Shoe Co. of Belleville, who died Saturday, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be in Walnut Hill Cemetery. Death was due to heart disease. Weber was unmarried and is survived by three sisters and a brother.

FOOT DISEASE CONTRACTED FROM FUNGUS IS SPREADING

Commonly Called "Athlete's Foot" Because So Many Suffer Infection.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 12.—Times, Trichophyton, a vegetable fungus found on the floors of gymnasium shower rooms, swimming pools, bath houses and golf club locker rooms, is "playing hob" with more than 20,000,000 feet in the United States a rash attributed to contact with the fungus is rapidly spreading, according to Dr. Charles Pabst, chief dermatologist of the Green Point Hospital, Brooklyn.

"So many golfers and other athletes are afflicted with this disease," said Dr. Pabst, "that it has become known as 'athlete's foot.'" The disease is first manifest by redness and soreness between the toes, explained the doctor, but it can be arrested by the prompt application of an antiparasitic ointment.

JAPANESE WAR SHIPS BEAT OFF CHINESE PIRATES

Destroyer Recaptures Merchantman That Had Been Seized, After Fight Near Haichow.

STEAMER ESCAPES WHEN FIRED ON

Makes Port With Captain Wounded and One Sailor Dead and Reports Attack by Buccaneers.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 12.—The first piracy on the north coast of China in two years brought forth two Japanese war-craft to recapture Japanese merchantman from the pirates.

The Japanese steamer Hirasu Maru, outbound from Shanghai, encountered a steamer flying a Japanese flag accompanied by a Chinese junk near Haichow. The junk approached the Hirasu Maru and as it neared the ship it was seen the junk was filled with pirates.

The pirates fired on the Japanese steamship, wounding the captain and killing one sailor. The Hirasu Maru finally escaped and arrived at Tsingtao, Sunday. The Japanese destroyer Tsubaki, from Port Arthur, and the gunboat Tashima, from Tsingtao, started on the course of the pirates.

It was reported by wireless today that the Tsubaki recaptured the ship from the pirates near Haichow after a severe fighting. The Japanese steamship was identified as the Hirasu Maru. It was presumed here that the vessel had been seized by the Pirates. The fate of the ship's crew was not reported.

LINCOLN A LIVING FORCE IN NATION'S LIFE, SAYS WILBUR

Perpetuates Spiritual Union While Maintaining Country Intact by Force of Arms.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 12.—Preservation of the Union by military intimidation might have been equally well engineered by Alexander the Great, Caesar or Napoleon, but it remained for Abraham Lincoln to make the nation intact by force of arms and yet perpetuate spiritual union, Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy, told a memorial mass-meeting last night.

"He never thought of the second states as out of the Union," Wilbur said. "He thought of the soldiers in the army of the South as citizens of the Union, to be restored and recovered to brotherhood and citizenship. He did not hate them; he did not desire them ill-fortune."

"Lincoln gave to Americans a philosophy of life, still living in their hearts, something which is still active in legislative halls, in judicial chambers and executive offices; something that steels the arm of the soldier and the sailor for conflict; something which helped win the World War, and which will help us in all future wars. In this aspect, Lincoln is no mere historical figure. He is a vital force, operating in the hearts of all who believe in his acts."

CABARET DANCER RESCUED FROM ICY WATERS OF LAKE

Mlle. Simone Roseray, Who Tried to Kill Herself in Central Park, Refused to Give Reason.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Mlle. Simone Roseray, young French cabaret dancer, attempted to drown herself in one of the small lakes in Central Park yesterday, but was rescued by a passing motorist.

Thomas Moore, 25 years old, driving through Central Park, heard a faint scream.

When Moore seized Roseray and tried to get her to shore she fought, and several times nearly broke away. The dancer refused to tell why she tried to end her life.

GIRL STUDENT KILLS SELF

Dorothy A. Freeman, 18, of Olney, Ill., Found Dead at Lynchburg, Va.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Feb. 12.—Dorothy Augusta Freeman, 19 years old, of Olney, Ill., a student at Randolph-Macon Women's College here, took her life last night by firing a bullet into her temple.

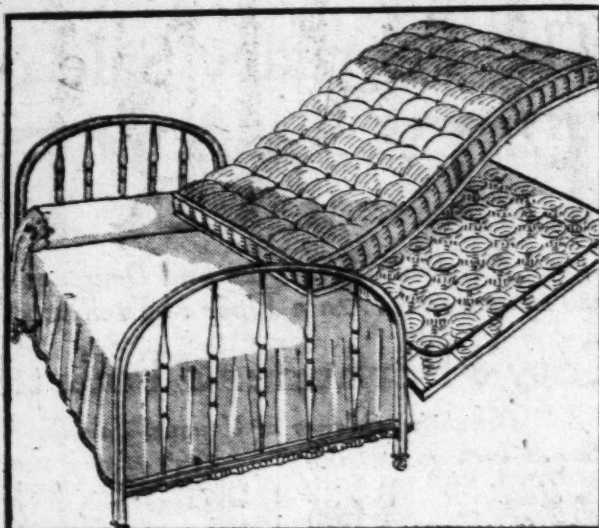

Students found the girl lying lifeless on the floor of her room with a pistol nearby. A letter addressed to her parents lay on the table. The girl's scholastic work was said to be good.

Swedish King at Mass in Rome.
By the Associated Press.
ROME, Feb. 12.—The presence of King Gustavus of Sweden and his Queen made particularly notable the solemn pontifical high mass celebrated in the Sistine Chapel yesterday in observance of the sixth anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XI. Cardinal Locatelli and the Sistine choir intoned the mass. The Pope, carried in the sedia gestatoria, pronounced the benediction.

Pickrel Walnut

The PICKREL WALNUT perhaps, for the fact that well nothing but walnut in 1912 they have named walnut (the common) tree of 1914 to 1917 the plant of war material in the forest. When the United States was run over entirely by the war material and gun states. Since the end of the cutting walnut lumber has been scarce.

They ship walnut logs down surrounding states, in small or large quantities, and it is particularly true there is apparently no country at the present fifteen years run. The steadily growing tree making a constant source of wood are planted in this country.

Every day this species to cause one particular kind of industry, by using the walnut lumber.

YOUR ST. LOUIS

How Well Do You Know It?

Pickrel Walnut Company

The PICKREL WALNUT COMPANY is unique, perhaps for the fact that they manufacture and sell nothing but walnut lumber and logs. Since 1912 they have manufactured over ninety million (90,000,000) feet of walnut lumber. From 1914 to 1917 the plant operated exclusively on war material in the form of gun stocks and propeller lumber for the foreign government. When the United States declared war, the plant was run over entirely to the manufacture of propeller lumber and gun stocks for the United States. Since the end of the war they have been cutting walnut lumber for domestic and foreign trade.

They ship walnut logs into St. Louis from a dozen surrounding states. Their logs are secured in small or large quantities from the farmer, and it is particularly interesting to know that there is apparently as much walnut in the country at the present time, as there was fifteen years ago. The smaller trees are constantly growing into larger ones, thereby making a constant source of supply. Walnut trees are planted to a considerable extent in this country.

Every day this space will be devoted to some one particular manufacturing plant or industry which is contributing to the dynamic growth of St. Louis.

29 BODIES TAKEN OUT OF BURNING MINE IN CANADA

Ten Others Reported Found—12 Men Rescued After Being Imprisoned by Fire.

RESCUE CREW FROM U.S. AIDS VOLUNTEERS

Team Rushed From Pittsburgh, Pa., Highly Praised for Efforts in Deadly Gases of Lower Levels.

By the Associated Press. TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 12.—The work of bringing bodies of the victims from the burning Hollinger gold mine continued today with hope abandoned that any of the missing miners would be found alive.

Twenty-nine bodies had been brought to the surface this afternoon and report at the shaft head were that the bodies of 10 other missing men had been located. Twelve of the 51 miners imprisoned Friday had been rescued.

It was officially announced that the fire, which had been burning on the 550-foot level since Friday morning, was under control. The workers continued to pour water on the blazing debris and the mine passages were being blocked with heavy canvas screens and the smoke and gas cleared from each section in turn.

High praise was given the United States Bureau of Mines rescue crew from Pittsburgh, Pa., the American workers being given credit for recovery of some of the bodies and control of the fire.

One of those rescued, N. Petchick, told how he tried to warn some of his fellow workers, when he smelled the smoke, and how a small party was driven from one shaft to another by deadly gases as they sought to reach exits.

Finally, he said, seven of them improvised gas masks by soaking their shirts in water, broke a compressed air line, and turned the pipe so it partly blew the smoke and gas from them while they awaited the rescuing party.

THREE OF CREW MISSING AFTER TUG STRIKES ROCK

Twenty-three Others Row to Safety After Crash Off Coast Near Boston.

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, Feb. 12.—Three members of the crew of the naval tug Mohave were missing today after the craft had piled up on the jagged rocks of Harding Ledge, two miles east of Point Allerton, last night.

Twenty-three other sailors, including Chief Boatswain Mate Patrick P. Powers, commander of the tug, were safe. Six were near exhaustion after a long row to Nantasket in an open dinghy that had only one pair of oars. The men had been ordered out in search of the three who were believed to have lost their lives, and failing to find them, struck out for the shore. The punt in which the missing men put out was found washed ashore today.

Missouri U. Professors to Hold Conferences on Cattle, Crops and Dairying.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 12.—Completion of arrangements for a short course in agriculture at Kirksville was announced yesterday by F. B. Mumford, dean of the Missouri College of Agriculture. The course will be offered from Feb. 27 to March 1, through the co-operation of the Agricultural College and of the Kirksville Chamber of Commerce and the Teachers' College in that city.

A discussion of sheep, hogs and beef cattle and of the agriculture outlook for poultry, dairy products and farm crops will feature the four-day session. Specialists from the University of Missouri will assist in presenting the program. Among the professors from Columbia who will assist the short course are J. W. Burch, Meade Forster, H. L. Kempster, A. J. Dunsay, C. A. Helm, M. J. Reagan, M. F. Miller and W. H. E. Reid.

GAS-ELECTRIC EQUIPMENT ON QUINCY-KANSAS CITY LINE

240-Mile Subsidiary of Burlington Railroad to Eliminate Steam Passenger Service.

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 12.—Passenger equipment of the Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City Railroad will be changed to gas-electric power about June 1, J. P. Cummings, superintendent of the road, said today. The line, running from Quincy, Ill., to Kansas City, 240 miles, belongs to the Burlington. It is proposed to build platforms at some of the cross-roads that service may be available to farmers. The line has been operating at a loss to the Burlington for some time, Cummings said.

Ex-Governor's Renunciation of Ambition Written but Its Announcement Is Likely to Be Delayed.

KOELN MAY BACK ROSCOE PATTERSON

Mayor Miller Pledges Support to H. S. Caulfield, G. O. P. Machine Candidate for Governor.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13.—Virtual elimination of former Gov. Hyde as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate by the calm announcement of St. Louis wet leaders, more interested in the fight on prohibition than they are in party politics, that an independent candidate would be brought out against him if he were the Republican nominee, was the chief development last night in a series of rapid changes in the State Republican situation.

Next in importance was the receipt by former Judge Henry S. Caulfield of St. Louis of a telegram from Mayor Miller offering his support to the Caulfield candidacy for the governorship.

This unexpected aid for Caulfield brought consternation to his opponents, several of whom were until this morning getting back to a condition of renewed hope for themselves.

Some Possibilities. The back down of Hyde, radical dry, opens up the senatorial field to several who have been eyeing it longingly but at the gathering of Republicans here for the annual Lincoln day banquet tonight it appeared probable that Roscoe C. Patterson of Springfield, United States Attorney for the Western District of Missouri, and former Congressman, would be favored by the king-makers of the party.

In the absence of any definite statement of position by him he is looked up as almost wet enough to suit the wets and almost dry enough to suit the dries.

There are others under serious consideration, including Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis of St. Louis, Congressman Charles Faust of St. Joseph, former United States Senator George H. Williams of St. Louis and G. J. Page of Springfield, but interest appears to be settling on Patterson.

Hyde's Renunciation Ready. Hyde has not publicly announced his decision not to be a candidate, but he has it written out and it may be made public at any time. He has confided to close friends that his mind is settled. However, his failure to get out definitely indicates the Governor has an anchor holding. This may be and probably is, due to a desire to let negotiations for Patterson's candidacy or that of somebody else proceed to a strong finish before Hyde quits the field.

The former Governor has been proceeding cautiously in his campaign and it was only when it became settled that the Koeln organization in St. Louis had no confidence in its ability to line up the wet vote for him that Hyde reached his decision to stay out. He was in St. Louis last week going over the situation with Koeln and it is probable, got the word which was taken to Jefferson City yesterday that A. L. Shapleigh, leader of the Republican revolt against R. R. Brewster, the nominee for the Senate in 1927, and the St. Louis business group which puts up the most of the Republican campaign fund would not stand for Hyde or any other dry and that if he were the nominee an independent wet Republican would be brought out against him.

Hyde, of course, realized that this, with the strong German opposition to him in St. Louis at his nomination, would mean virtually certain defeat for the party, including himself, and could see no use wasting his time.

Patterson and Koeln Confer. An indication that the decision was known several days ago to the Koeln organization which has assumed through its power in St. Louis to attempt a control and dictation of the choice of senatorial and gubernatorial candidates is the information that last week Koeln was in conference with Patterson. It is said they reached an agreement, though this is not certain.

Secretary of War Davis, who is expected here today, is interested in the senatorship, as is also former Senator Williams.

It is considered not unlikely that Davis will file although for geographical reasons, neither the Senator Williams is a logical candidate because the other seat in the Senate is held by Senator Hawes, a St. Louisan. Also the nearly completed organization lineup for Caulfield for Governor would make it inadvisable to run a St. Louis man for the other principal office to be filled. The Western part of the State will demand recognition in one of these places.

There is a wet. He probably would have been a candidate against Hyde, but there is little likelihood that he will get into the race against Patterson. Faust would please all the readers, but his close friends say that he has told them definitely many times that he would not consider setting out on a State-wide race.

Miller's Pledge a Surprise. The Miller pledge of support to Caulfield was a surprise to the other candidates and even to close friends of Miller, though it was realized that the announcement coming when it did was a bit of a surprise. The Mayor is in Bloomington, Miss., and his announcement in a telegram to Caulfield here was timed to be made public just when the State Republicans were gathered for a big meeting and the message would get the maximum attention.

And it did. It started an out-State band wagon movement to Caulfield which materially strengthened his chances for the nomination. It made the lineup of factional leaders for him the strongest in a campaign in recent years, including in fact practically all the so-called leaders. In addition to Miller and Koeln the group includes Hyde and Gov. Baker.

Amenable to organization discipline as Republicans usually show themselves to be, the Caulfield support as a practical political matter, seems to be extremely formidable.

Other candidates may denounce boss rule, but when all the bosses get together they usually win. The Miller telegram to Caulfield follows:

"After careful study and thought concerning the candidate for Governor for the Republican party, I have reached this conclusion:

"Your experience as a public official in important offices you have held certainly has fitted you to efficiently, courageously and honestly fulfill the duties of Governor to the satisfaction of the great majority. Your knowledge and support of the things that are of benefit to St. Louis and our great State of Missouri, are added reasons for the conclusion I have reached.

"I feel sure that my own conduct in public office has indicated that I am unselfishly interested in the progress of our city and State, and believing that you are of the same inclination, I am offering my support to you, feeling that in so doing I am giving what help I can to my party, my city and my State."

There was much speculation when news of the telegram became noised about the hotel lobbies as to the reasons for the Mayor's action. Dr. James Stewart, one of the candidates against Caulfield, was convinced that he would have the support of Miller and the city hall machine. William R. Schneider, another candidate, was equally convinced that Miller would permit the city hall crowd to divide as it pleased on the governorship.

The general opinion expressed here was that the Mayor and Koeln had made a deal by which Miller was pledged the support of the Koeln organization in his expected battle with former Mayor Kiel for the mayoralty nomination next year. However, there are those who take the position that if Miller has gone into such a deal, he may be disappointed by changing political conditions and wake up some morning to find that the Koeln organization does not feel it can make headway for Miller, and that former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton is the logical candidate for Mayor.

While to those versed in practical politics the organization support for Caulfield would seem almost unbeatable, Caulfield still has hurdles to pass, and some of them may cause him considerable trouble.

About three-fourths of the Republican vote is cast outside of St. Louis, and there are objections heard from rural sections which may or may not prove troublesome. Not the least of the clouds in the Caulfield sky is due to the presidential situation in Missouri just now, brought to attention yesterday when former Gov. James P. Goodrich of Indiana and Newton arrived in Jefferson City to promote the selection of Hoover delegates to the national convention in Kansas City June 12 and Herman Steen arrived from the Lowden headquarters in Chicago to promote Lowden's candidacy.

Hoover a Factor. It is the Hoover activity that is causing the present threat to Caulfield, or rather Newton's participation in it. Newton is known as a part of the Koeln organization, and as a co-partner with Koeln in getting Caulfield in the race.

Lowden has the lead over Hoover and other candidates in rural Missouri and it is this vote which must be appealed to for Caulfield.

Many of the Hyde and Baker out-State leaders believe Hoover's nomination would mean the loss of the State, and the loss of close counties and they are open in their displeasure because of Newton's activity for Hoover. They believe the Koeln group is going entirely too far in attempting to pick the candidates for Senator, for Governor, and also to dictate the Missouri delegation to the national convention, and there are evidences that the Lowden supporters may seek to show their resentment by refusing to get into the Caulfield wagon unless Koeln calls Newton off the Hoover organization.

While sentiment in rural Missouri is for Lowden, there has been no effort toward its crystallization until today. Steen on his arrival here went into conference with James A. Finch of Cape Girardeau, who is likely to have the Lowden leadership in Missouri, but nothing was forthcoming from them as to their plans. Undoubtedly, however, the effort will be made in as many rural districts as give reason to hope for success, to name delegates who will be friendly to Lowden.

Really the only stumbling block to at least reasonable success for the Lowden forces in the State, is the fear that his nomination would revive the slush fund scandal of 1925 and that it would provide the Democrats with a telling campaign issue which the Republicans could not meet.

What little sentiment exists for Vice President Davies in Missouri is scattered and nothing has been done toward organizing it. Davies himself having discouraged any efforts in his behalf. However, a Lowden delegation probably could be converted easily into a Davies delegation if Lowden should fail to develop strength in the convention and if it should appear there was a chance to nominate Davies.

Dr. E. B. Clements, Republican, National Committeeman, who is a candidate for re-election and who apparently will be re-elected without opposition is keeping clear of the presidential situation, though several months ago he sounded out the Davies sentiment. Dr. Clements is attending to his own knitting which stokes the other way talk about presidential candidates is begun within his hearing. There is little doubt that he still nourishes the hope that there will be a deadlock in the convention, and the delegates will turn to President Coolidge, and that Coolidge will accept.

But to nearly 100 per cent of the Missouri politicians Washington is a long way off. Jefferson City is a lot closer. They never have dealings with the President. They frequently have, or hope to have, with the Governor. Consequently they are more interested in carrying the State than they are in carrying the nation, and their chief concern in the presidential nominee is to have one who will be strong in Missouri.

The vice presidents of the Association of Young Republicans, of Missouri, elected these officers to-day: President, Keith McCance of

Am-o-loz

It is prepared especially for children. It contains no narcotics or other harmful drugs. It is far better and far safer, therefore, than adults' medicine which may be too strong for little bodies.

Am-o-loz has been used successfully for twenty years by careful, loving mothers and has saved many babies and children from serious illness.

Used in time, you can depend upon Am-o-loz to relieve a cough quickly, soothe tender, tickling throats and check the progress of the cold. It is a comfort to little sufferers, for it loosens the tightness and allows easier breathing. Am-o-loz helps to ward off the dangerous consequences of neglect or improper treatment.

You always give simple food to your children, mother, and you are always careful of their clothing. Am-o-loz will relieve you of the worry you always have when your child has a cough or cold.

Get Am-o-loz from your druggist—50c. He will recommend and sell it to you and his guarantee of benefit or money back. Keep it on hand and use it in time. Results will prove to you that it pays to give your children only children's medicine.

When children need a laxative, the best and most economical one you know is Tri-Lax. In 15 minutes it is in other mild corrective. It contains fresh prune juice.

WOMAN'S SLAYER KILLS SELF WHEN CORNERED

Youth Ends Life When Tear Bombs Are Thrown Into Hiding Place.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MARION III, Feb. 13.—Elsbeth Troop, 20-year-old paroled youth, who shot Mrs. Charity Sweet, 70, a dressmaker, at Thompsonville Feb. 4, shot and killed herself at the home of Elijah Moore in the north-east corner of Williamson County last night when Franklin County officers got word he was there and had thrown tear bombs into the house.
Coroner Bell returned a verdict of suicide. The youth had been trailed over Southern Illinois and was found soon after Mrs. Sweet had died Friday.

PUEYREDON AND HUGHES CLASH IN DEBATE ON TARIFF

ought not to introduce special economic problems into the preamble of the Pan-American Union.
"For the Good It Can Do."
"It was to save the Pan-American Union for the good it can do," continued Hughes, "not to prevent it from dealing with subjects which would destroy it, that the Argentine chairman's motion was opposed."

"It was quite apparent early in the discussions that the majority of the delegates were not favorable to giving the Pan-American Union political functions. Our friend, Dr. Urbina, from Mexico, said the other day that it was difficult to say what was political function or power. Certainly it is difficult to draw the line."

"We in the United States have learned to consider the tariff as a political matter. I suppose the same is true in other countries regarding taxes and duties. No country can live without revenue. I notice that the chairman of the Argentine delegation added his own vote against giving the Pan-American Union political functions—but he did this not for the purpose of preventing the Pan-American Union from achieving its purposes."

"I will not enter into a discussion of the limits between economic and political matters, but I will say that we seek as much as Argentina full co-operation between the American States for the common good. We must not destroy the Pan-American Union by making it a tariff commission or a tax commission, or any other commission which will make it impinge upon domestic affairs."

Pueyrredon is emphatic.

Dr. Pueyrredon then insisted that it be left on the record that in the subcommittee, while he was agreeable to the preamble as far as it went, he had always stressed clearly and emphatically that his approval was dependent upon the inclusion of economic clauses.

Prior to Dr. Pueyrredon's reiteration, the Uruguayan delegate, Jacom Varela, proposed that the preamble be agreed to, with the understanding that any objection should be taken up when the question of ratification was discussed. Enrique Olaya, the chairman, asked for objections, and, as there was none, he declared the preamble approved. No record vote was taken.

Dr. Pueyrredon then announced that he could not sign the convention against his own conviction. The proposal then was made by Dr. Varela that any convention agreed to at the Havana conference should not require the signature of the various delegates before being sent to the Legislatures of the various countries for ratification.

The proposal caused much interest, many of the delegates saw in it a hint that, whereas Dr. Pueyrredon was not willing to sign the preamble, his Government might be willing to take the other view.

Another Knotty Problem.
This afternoon the subcommittee on public international law is scheduled to meet to combine all views on the question of intervention by one state in the internal affairs of another.

Both Dr. Pueyrredon and Dr. Gustavo Guerrero of Salvador announced that in this meeting, which will be held behind closed doors, they would continue to uphold the complete and unconditional prohibition of intervention recommended in the Rio de Janeiro jurists' conference.

The jurists recommended the flat declaration: "No state may intervene in the internal affairs of another." The United States delegation has opposed any formula as sweeping as this and holds that the duty of the conference is to codify existing international law and not to introduce new precepts.
Dr. Pueyrredon said he would maintain his stand against intervention notwithstanding dispatches from Buenos Aires indicating his Government might be in favor of a less determined stand. He appeared sure that in denouncing flatly and unconditionally all intervention he would have his Government's full support, no matter what might be the attitude of Buenos Aires on the advisability of insisting on economic Pan-Americanism.

Proceedings Kept Secret.
Dr. Guerrero declined to disclose any of the proceedings of the subcommittee on public international law, which for more than a week has had under consideration the report presented by Dr. Victor Maurtua of Peru, which had been attacked on the ground that it subordinates national independence to the rights of other nations. "Although by common agreement of the sub-committee I can say nothing as to what has been going on there," Dr. Guerrero said, "my attitude on intervention is well known. I do not recognize the right of intervention of one country in the internal affairs of another under any circumstances. "This attitude to which I have always held, I still hold and will continue to hold unswervingly. I have already publicly announced in committee that I am favorable to the approval of the recommendations of the Rio de Janeiro jurists' conference report on the subject, and I have seen no reason to change my attitude."

Hughes and his fellow delegates hold that the right to intervention in certain determined cases is a well-established principle in international law, and argue that the only formula which could be acceptable is one which, while denouncing all cases of admitted unlawful interventions, still recognizes that circumstances may arise when such action is to be approved.

SPECIAL U. S. BUREAU FOR SMALL RETAILER

Department of Commerce Asks for Suggestions as to Most Helpful Service.

With a view to helping the small business man solve his trade problems, a special department is being created in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, according to an announcement of the United States Department of Commerce in Washington.

In order that the full possibilities of the section may be developed, suggestions have been requested from small retailers and others as to what particular service would be most helpful. In the St. Louis District, such recommendations will be received by the St. Louis office of the Bureau and forwarded to the Washington headquarters.

In many instances, it is pointed out, the small business man is without trade associations or other connections which provide adequate and dependable information concerning the development of business practices and policies, and he is often without a source of commodity information other than that gleaned from the occasional visit of a salesman. Since favorable results have followed co-operative efforts of the Bureau with organized commercial and industrial groups, it is explained, it is believed that similar good may be accomplished by extending the service to all business.

In a recent sample census of distribution taken by the Department of Commerce, it was disclosed that in one large city 73 per cent of all retailers do an annual business of less than $25,000 and that 33 per cent do less than $500 worth. Another 22 per cent reported from $500 to $10,000 worth of business a year and about 25 per cent from $10,000 to $25,000. Some concerns were not even reported because they did less than $500 of business a year. All of these, comprising more than three-quarters of the retailers, it is pointed out, operate on such a small scale that many of the rules and methods described in reports for large concerns are not applicable. It is these which the Bureau purposes to help.

DRIVER'S SON KILLED WHEN TRUCK UPSETS

Charles Orrock, 8, Crushed Under Vehicle at 5127 Natural Bridge—Father Injured.

A dump truck driven by Charles Orrock, 4420 Ravenwood avenue, Pine Lawn, overturned at 5127 Natural Bridge yesterday afternoon, seriously injuring Orrock and killing his son, Charles Jr., 8 years old, who was riding with him.

Orrock told police he was driving west on Natural Bridge when an automobile, parked at the north curb, suddenly pulled out, causing him to swerve. He lost control of the truck and it struck the curbing of a parkway in the street, the truck turning over and pinioning the father and son. They were extricated by passersby.

Orrock was taken to Christian Hospital, with fractured ribs.

Peter Cepicky, 84, was seriously injured when struck by an automobile today at Kingshighway and Northland avenue. Cepicky, who lives at 4500 Cupples place, was taken to city hospital suffering from fractures of the skull and ribs. Grover Gisch, a mechanic, 2103 Eads avenue, driver of the machine, said Cepicky had walked against the side of the car.

390 Gallons of Alcohol Found in Truck That Injures Man.

James Pirrone, 35, of 1015 North Eleventh street, was knocked down and seriously injured this morning by a skidding truck in which police later found 390 gallons of alcohol in five-gallon cans. Pirrone suffered a fracture of one leg and internal injuries. He was taken to City Hospital.

Steve Studich, 18, who said he lived at 700 O'Fallon street, drove the truck that struck Pirrone. He said he was driving north on Third street and attempted to slow down near Franklin avenue. The machine skidded, swerved to the curb, struck a pole and then Pirrone. Banana baskets were piled on the rear of the truck to conceal the cans of alcohol. Studich was booked for felonious wounding, on the traffic charge, but held for investigation when the liquor was found. He said he knew nothing about the cargo in the truck. The vehicle had painted on it the name of an Italian, for whom police are searching.

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA

For Troubles due to Acid Indigestion, ACID STOMACH, HEADACHE, GASES, NAUSEA.

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour. Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere. Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Ordinary harmful methods will never make you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prepared by physicians for 50 years to correct excess acids. 25c and 50c bottles—any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles Phillips since 1874.

URBAN LEAGUE GIVES OBJECTIVES FOR 1928

Hopes to Get for Negroes New Hospital, Playground and Recreation Center.

Objectives of the Urban League, a social service organization for Negroes, for this year are set forth in the annual report of executive Secretary, John T. Clark, as follows:

"During 1928 the League hopes to play no small part in helping to obtain four major social facilities for the race—a new city hospital, a playground, a recreation center and a cottage for Negro girls at Meramec Hills. We hope to complete a study in the 26 districts of the city of the Negro population, to serve as a basis for measuring in future years the movement and development of our people in St. Louis. We hope to have our day nursery adequately equipped and perhaps more conveniently located. These definite objectives are in addition to a gradual strengthening of the technique of our service and integrating the League's program more fully into the social program of the city."

Income of the League, a Community Fund agency, in 1927 was $22,197.67, and its expenditures left a balance of only $27.53.

The Mississippi Valley flood last spring and race clashes in some Arkansas towns increased the usual influx of Southern Negroes into St. Louis last year, the report states, and then the tornado wiped out considerable housing facilities. However, erection of many new homes, apartments and flats in Negro districts was noted. A new high school and two new grade schools for Negroes were opened.

"There seem to have been made no particularly outstanding accomplishments in social progress affecting St. Louis Negroes," the report declares. "To be sure, substantial gains have been made in both the scope and character of work done by strictly Negro social agencies, and the larger city-wide agencies in behalf of our group."

More Negroes here suffered longer layoffs last year than ever before in the city's history, and there was less work available for them than in the past, the report continues. The League's industrial placement agency for Negroes. Last year it had 19,640 applicants for work, 24 per cent more than in 1926, but it had only 5100 calls for employees, 19 per cent less than in 1926.

Greater activity and accomplishment than formerly was reported in the League's operations. Besides dealing with the persons looking for jobs, it had contacts with 2000 employers, 300 factories and stores visited, nine neighborhood clubs in 300 home meetings, 8000 children in vacant lot playgrounds, 1400 children at a dental clinic, 3600 young children in a day nursery and many miscellaneous circumstances.

WOMAN LEAPS TO DEATH

FROM BURNING APARTMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Ignoring the pleas of firemen to wait until they could raise a ladder, Mrs. Ida de Cola, 42 years old, leaped from a window of her apartment on the fourth floor, in Brooklyn, when flames were sweeping the building yesterday morning. She died a few minutes later in a hospital.

Mrs. de Cola and her husband, Vincent, got to a window ledge, while three other families escaped by way of the roof. Firemen were raising the aerial ladder while other firemen rescued de Cola, when his wife screamed and jumped.

it checks sore throat

Listerine is so generally used as a remedy for cold weather complaints that even children know about it.

At the first sign of sore throat, gargle with it full strength. It immediately attacks the disease-producing bacteria in the mouth and throat, and usually prevents a threatening condition from becoming serious.

During cold weather months make a habit of using it two or three times a day. It may spare you a long siege of illness.

CAPTURES BURGLAR RUNNING FROM HOUSE

William Plass, Returning Home, Grapples With One of Two Men at Door.

One of two men surprised in the home of William Plass, 4449A Ashland avenue, late yesterday, was captured by Plass, with the assistance of neighbors, after Plass had fought with the man.

Mrs. Plass had noticed a light burning in the rear of the house as they came in and remarked about it. The light was turned out at once. Plass ran to the rear door as two men ran out. He grabbed one and began fighting with him, as the first man, who had attracted the attention of Patrolman John Finn, a neighbor of Plass, was escaping, after the policeman had fired three shots at him. The man who was captured said he is John Hough, a coroner. He gave an address on Easton avenue. A skeleton key was found near where he and Plass had struggled.

As Sam and Ethel Lieberachuck were tending their father's deli-tessen at 2105 Franklin avenue, two armed Negroes entered and took $39 and a watch from them and four customers last night. Two Negroes also got $125 in robbery of the drug store at 2601 Morgan street last night, after forcing Henry Talbert, the clerk, and Dr. Gray Wilkerson, both Negroes, behind the prescription counter. Of the money, $76 belonged to Dr. Wilkerson.

Four armed Negroes entered the drug store at 1901 Franklin avenue last night and took $18 from the cash register after herding the two clerks and eight customers behind the prescription counter. As Mrs. Julia Grisham and her daughter, Ruth, 4054 Kennerly avenue, walked past Sarah street and Maffitt avenue last night, a man ran up from behind, grabbed Mrs. Grisham's purse containing $15.50 and escaped.

Burglars who forced their way into the grocery at 2500 Magnolia avenue some time yesterday, got $19.92 from the cash register and a safe which they forced and jewelry valued at $386 from an upstairs apartment where Bernard Barth, one of the proprietors of the store lives.

SCRATCH ON FOOT FATAL TO EMPLOYE OF POSTOFFICE

Funeral of Roy M. Thomson Held Today, With Interment at Bellefontaine Cemetery.

The funeral of Roy M. Thomson, who, for 25 years was an employe of the St. Louis Postoffice, was held today with interment in Bellefontaine Cemetery. He died Friday at Missouri Baptist Sanitarium of blood poisoning, which developed after a slight scratch on his right foot had become infected.

Mr. Thomson, who was 48 years old, had not noticed the scratch until one morning when he arose. Two days later infection set in and he was removed to the hospital where, after two blood transfusions, he died a week after the scratch had first been seen. He is survived by his widow and a brother, Albert R. Thomson, who is chief deputy in the office of the Recorder of Deeds.

ELEVATOR BUILDERS ADOPT 5-DAY WEEK

Employers Oppose Measure
Now in Effect in 7 Unions and Voted by Others.

Announcement last week that members of the Elevator Constructors' Local Union No. 2, an organization of several hundred men, have adopted the five-day working week, effective June 1, brings the number of St. Louis building crafts that have adopted the shortened week to seven.

Crafts putting the shortened week into effect last year included the plasterers, who are the best paid building mechanics, lathers and electricians. Stonemasons adopted the measure Jan. 1, but, after laying off for several Saturdays, returned to the old schedule of five and a half days principally because the bricklayers, with whom they are closely allied, are opposed to the measure.

Cement finishers will work but five days a week, beginning April 1, and union carpenters, the largest group in the Building Trades Council, have set May 1 as the date for placing the measure into effect. Union painters and another important labor group, recently voted in favor of the measure but have set no date for the change. At a recent meeting with employers it was suggested that 1928 will be a busy painting year, and that the five-day week will not be practical for some months.

The five-day week is sponsored by the American Federation of Labor as the means of providing at least part time employment for increased numbers of union mechanics. The local Building Trades Council added its approval to the measure, which, however, is opposed by employers on the ground that the shortened week will increase construction costs.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

DRUG ADDICTS CURED BY NEW TREATMENT

High Percentage of Success Reported on Narcosan by City Hospital.

Narcosan, a patented chemical preparation, is being used successfully at City Hospital in curing drug addicts of their craving for narcotics.

Director of Public Welfare Sal. Murray, who suggested the system of treatment in St. Louis following a visit last March to New York prisons, where it is used, is authority for the statement today that of a few more than 100 cases treated since last April, virtually all who co-operated earnestly with the doctors were cured of the craving for narcotics at the end of the prescribed 11 days' treatment.

Some of those who began the treatment in the first months of the year here did not remain for the full course and went back to drugs, as did a few others who accepted the treatment today. Director Salisbury said 65 to 75 per cent did not resume the habit.

Neutralized Toxic Substances. Narcosan does not contain a habit-forming drug. The theory of its action in the body is that narcotics call forth certain protective substances in the body to neutralize them. If the narcotics are suddenly withdrawn, these neutralizing substances themselves become poisonous. Narcosan is said to neutralize these toxic substances and serves as an active but harmless substitute for the narcotics. Some Eastern doctors have opposed its use. It was discovered by a chemist, as was Sarvan, widely used blood remedy, opposed to the beginning.

Director Salisbury studied the treatment with Narcosan on Blackwell's Island, the New York City workhouse, and was told that cures were effected in a majority of cases. Since experimenting at the City Hospital here on more than 100 chronic addicts at a cost of about $3000 for the preparation, Director Salisbury said the doctors have not encountered a bad effect and are convinced Narcosan has shown itself of unquestioned value. He believes that after a proper course of this treatment the cure

DRUG ADDICTS CURED
BY NEW TREATMENT

High Percentage of Success Reported on Narcosan by City Hospital.

Narcosan, a patented chemical preparation, is being used successfully at City Hospital in curing drug addicts of their craving for narcotics.

Director of Public Welfare Sal. Salisbury, who suggested the system of treatment in St. Louis following a visit last March to New York, where it is used, is authority for the statement today that of a few more than 100 cases treated since last April, virtually all who co-operated earnestly with the doctors were cured of the craving for narcotics at the end of the prescribed 21 days' treatment.

Some of those who began the treatment in the first months of the year here did not remain for the full course and went back to the streets as did a few others who asserted they were cured, but returned to drugs when they became restless outside after they left the hospital. But with those added to the entire total, Director Salisbury said 65 to 75 per cent did not resume the habit.

Narcosan does not contain a habit-forming drug. The theory of its action in the body is that narcotics call forth certain protective substances in the body to neutralize them. If the narcotics are suddenly withdrawn, these neutralizing substances themselves become poisonous. Narcosan is said to neutralize these toxic substances and serves as an active but harmless substitute for the narcotics. Some Eastern doctors have opposed its use. It was discovered by a chemist, as was Sarvarian, a widely used blood remedy, opposed in the beginning.

Director Salisbury studied the treatment with Narcosan on Blackwell's Island, the New York City workhouse, and was told that cures were effected in a majority of cases. Since experimenting at the City Hospital here on more than 100 chronic addicts at a cost of about $1000 for the preparation, Director Salisbury said the doctors have not encountered a bad effect and are convinced Narcosan has shown itself of unquestioned value. He believes that after a proper course of this treatment the question of relapse to narcotic addiction is a social one to be answered by some provision to aid or re-establish the usually poor patient in employment. Some of those cured here have been given employment in city institutions and none of these has reverted to the habit.

Patients Held as Prisoners.

Treatment of drug addicts at City Hospital is hampered by restricted facilities, there being accommodations for only six patients at a time. In the beginning all addicts were invited to take the "cure," but it was found that some had not the will to endure the first few days of craving that follows withdrawal of narcotics and would leave. A plan then was adopted requiring those who applied to go first to Police Court and on a plea of vagrancy be sentenced to 21 days confinement. This enabled the hospital officials to hold the patients as prisoners, and all who entered under this condition in the last six months reported they had ceased using narcotics.

Many have written grateful letters to Director Salisbury. One such letter came from a St. Louis physician past 60 years of age and ethically reputable. He had been a confirmed drug addict for years and says that Narcosan administered in City Hospital has cured him of the habit.

The addicts have told Director Salisbury it costs them an average of $7 a day to obtain drugs from peddlers. The drugs destroy their capacity for work, and many of them turn to petty theft for means to satiate their craving. Imprisonment nearly always follows.

MAN FOUND HANGED IN PARK

The body of an unidentified man, found hanging from a strap attached to a rafter in a Forest Park comfort station near Clayton avenue and just west of Kingshighway yesterday, is at the City Hospital Morgue. The man was about 25 years old, six feet one inch tall, weighed about 195 pounds, had brown hair and gray eyes and wore a light brown cap, brown-hued suit and white shirt with green stripes.

LACLEDE GAS LIGHT
EARNINGS 6.8 PCT.

Service Board Announces Result of Audit—Increase in Rates Sought.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13.—An audit of earnings of the Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis, under its present rates, for 1926 and the first eight months of 1927, was made public today by the State Public Service Commission. It shows that the gas company in 1926 earned 6.8 per cent on the commission's valuation of its gas department, which was $48,064,920. For 1927, up to Aug. 31, the percentage of earning was 6.3, the valuation being $47,319,752. The audit was made by the commission's accountants.

The commission has held that the gas company was entitled to a return of 7 to 8 per cent on its valuation. The gas company's application for a revision of its rates, and reduction of the heat-unit requirements in its product, is pending before the commission, and hearings will be announced within a short time.

The proposed revision of rates would mean a reduction of rates to large consumers, and an increase in rates for the greater part of the small consumers, including most householders. The reduction in British thermal units, from 600 to 510, would tend to reduce the heat efficiency of the gas, and to increase the cost to consumers, the commission holds.

Charles A. Munroe, who disposed of his interest in the Laclede last May, making a profit estimated at more than $4,000,000, received $42,500 a year as chairman of the company's board of directors in 1926, and was paid at the same rate for the first half of 1927, the audit shows. The accountants' report that no salary is shown thus far for Munroe's successor as chairman, Earley L. Clarke.

The earnings of the company's gas department for the first eight months of last year were $2,016,849. On this basis, the commission estimates the entire year's earnings to be $2,824,073. The commission in 1925 fixed a valuation of $52,260,000 on all departments of the gas company and of $45,600,000 on its gas department. The audit covered only the gas department of the Laclede company, the rates of the electric department and the electric gas department not being affected by the application for revision of rates.

For 1926 the audit shows the operating revenues of the gas department totaled $7,311,709.56, of which $7,291,117.79 was from gas sales and the remainder, $20,544.77, was from other miscellaneous operating sources. Operating expenses were $3,522,315.75, and depreciation was $259,062.59, leaving $3,229,242.23 available for return.

The accountants suggested that in considering future rates, the commission take into consideration the fact that expenses for radio broadcasting, $15,300 in 1926 and $5000 in 1927, had been discontinued, and that the $42,500 salary of the chairman of the Board of Directors had been discontinued, further reducing expenses. Accountants suggested that operating expenses would be reduced further if the company won a suit now pending in the courts over increased assessments by the City of St. Louis, which involve an increase in taxes of $233,160 for 1927. The accountants allowed $155,400 of this as the proportionate part for the eight months of 1927 covered by the audit, in determining operating expenses.

HIGH COSTS OF FUNERALS OPPOSED BY SOCIAL AGENCIES

Following the lead of the larger insurance companies, mutual aid societies, fraternal insurance organizations and labor unions with members in St. Louis are recommending that funerals, whenever possible, be arranged before death, to eliminate unnecessary expense.

A nationwide campaign of publicity and education has been started by insurance companies to the end that insurance money paid to widows and children will not be consumed entirely or in large part by funeral expenses.

The practice of turning over insurance policies to undertakers is criticized as being a temptation to extravagance.

A great fountain-pen deserves a great writing fluid

And here it is, to match that preeminent writing instrument—the Lifetime fountain-pen. It makes all pens write better and the Lifetime pen write best. Washable Skrip for school and special work is clear and positive in color, yet washes out of clothing easily. Permanent Skrip, for record work, remains unfading for a lifetime. Both flow freely and evenly at all times without flooding, dry quickly on the paper but will not dry on the pen point or clog the flow. See that your fountain-pen is given an opportunity by using this great fluid.

Washable Skrip—25 and 25 cents a bottle—in blue, green, violet, red and black.
Permanent Royal Blue Skrip—25 cents a bottle

POLICEMAN FOLLOWS HIS NOSE TO MASH AND 100-GALLON STILL

Reports Taking 10 Cans of Alcohol From Closet and Finding Big Vat.

As Patrolman Barkley of the Mount. District was walking his beat late last night, he detected the odor of fermenting mash and traced it to 2212 Edwards street, he reported. Admitted to the house, the policeman said he went to the attic, where he found a man who said he was Samuel Franciamore, tending a still of 100 gallons capacity.

Ten cans of alcohol were taken from a closet, and a vat containing 1200 gallons of mash was found in the basement. Barkley said.

BIBLE A BLOODY BOOK, SAYS BILLY SUNDAY

Evangelist Declares Doctrine of Atonement Is Heart of Christianity.

Billy Sunday literally held up an American flag yesterday afternoon and figuratively held up "the blood of the Lamb" last night to bring hundreds down the "sawdust trail" at the Coliseum.

In the afternoon sermon the evangelist asked why, if prohibition were a failure, the wets "got so hot up about it," and then furiously belabored "Crooks, Corkscrews and Bootleggers." It was estimated that his flag-waving finish, while the choir sang "America," brought a fifth of the "men only" gathering of 8000 down the trail.

"The talk of men that they don't want this 'slaughter-house religion' shows they're fools," he said in his evening sermon on Hebrews, 9, 12: "Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by His own blood He entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us."

Sunday said he would fight infidels "until hell freezes over and then I'll buy skates and fight them on the ice." He found occasion to repeat the crux of his plea for fundamentalism, "I suppose, if your ideas disagree with the Bible, you're right and God's wrong."

Once he ran out of vituperative adjectives, in describing a seducer, and added—"so dirty rotten the devil would duck up an alley to avoid meeting him on the street."

Heart of Christianity.

The doctrine of atonement, he said, was the heart of Christianity. He told of a drunken son coming home, and asked, "Who suffers most, that innocent, broken-hearted mother, or that drunken bum of a boy?"

"Don't you charge God's plan of salvation with foolishness. You see it exemplified every day."

With many anecdotes of the innocent suffering for the guilty, he said, "I can take you out into the streets of St. Louis and show you thousands of cases of substitution."

"It is a bloody Gospel," he roared. "The Bible is a bloody book. It is a bloody world. You take the blood out of the Gospel and there's no more left of it than there would be of you if you drained the blood from your veins."

"Whatever the blood touches, it redeems," Sunday said. "You can argue against the Bible but you can't argue against sin." He advanced the reasoning, "what's the use of foregoing pleasurable sins without a hope of heavenly reward, but in an earlier sermon he has declared that he was above this sort of bargaining, and would obey the gospel even if he had no hope of reward."

Collection for Evangelist.

It was announced that the first collection for the evangelist would be taken next Sunday. Previously the local committee has announced that his compensation would come from free-will offerings on two days toward the close of the meeting, earlier collections having gone to defray expenses.

Sunday also gave some idea of his program for the closing day of the seven-week revival a week from next Sunday. He suggested tentatively that he would preach for everybody at 10:30 a. m., men only at 1:30 p. m., and everybody at 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

"Oh, I can do it if you come and hear it," he said. "And I think you will."

Although this is Sunday's day of rest, with no sermon until tomorrow afternoon at the Coliseum, it was announced that Miss Frances Bennett of his staff would begin a series of meetings for boys and girls at 2:30 p. m. at St. Paul's M. E. Church, continuing at the same hour tomorrow at Hope Congregational Church, Wednesday at Compton Heights Christian Church, Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. S. Bennett, 4377 McPherson avenue, and Friday at Maplewood Congregational Church.

SON OF SEARS-ROEBUCK HEAD

WEDS ARTIST'S DAUGHTER

Miss Renee Scharf of Vienna, Austria, Becomes Bride of William Rosenwald.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.—William Rosenwald, son of Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the Board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was married last evening to Miss Renee Scharf of Vienna, Austria, in the Rosenwald home.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Rosenwald, only immediate members of the two families attended. Dr. Louis L. Mann, rabbi of Sinai Congregation, performed the ceremony. Miss Scharf, 29 years old, is the daughter of Victor Scharf, Viennese painter. William Rosenwald, 24, is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

After meeting in South America, Rosenwald later went to woo Miss Scharf at her home in Vienna. She recently came here as a guest of Rosenwald's family. The original plan was for a marriage in Vienna, but this was set aside due to the illness of Miss Scharf.

Too Many Troubles: Kills Himself. Frank Malta, 26 years old, a bricklayer, shot and killed himself early today at his home, 3721 Lee avenue. A note found beside him said he had too many troubles to wish to live.

HAWES BILL BEFORE CENTRAL TRADES UNION

Would Bar Prison-Made Merchandise From Interstate Commerce.

A report on the progress of the Hawes-Cooper bill, which would prohibit interstate shipment of prison-made merchandise, was read at a meeting of the Central Trades and Labor Union yesterday by Reuben T. Wood, president of the Missouri State Federation of Labor, who attended a committee hearing on the measure at Washington last week.

Wood and David Kreyling, secretary of the Central Trades, who also attended the Washington hearing, reported that Senator Harry Hawes and Congressman Cooper of Ohio, sponsors of the bill, are confident that it will pass both houses of Congress by a large majority. The bill was recently reintroduced by Senator Hawes after failing to pass the Senate more than a year ago. It adopted, states permitting contract labor in penal institutions will be forced to absorb the products manufactured or abolished the system. The measure has received the endorsement of labor organizations on the ground that prison-made goods constitute unfair competition to free labor and capital.

Local labor leaders probably will speak over radio station WIL as the result of an invitation read at yesterday's meeting urging labor officials to use the station 10 minutes a week for the purpose of broadcasting news of their organizations.

The Central Trades again endorsed the bill pending before the Board of Aldermen requiring more stringent sanitary measures in barber shops. It also moved to investigate complaints among assistants in beauty parlors with a view to enforcing a shorter working period.

A report on the recent organization of the Wage Earners' League of East St. Louis, formed by labor unions for political purposes, was read, but no action toward adopting a similar policy here was taken.

There was nothing so good for congestion and colds as mustard. But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered.

Mustard gives the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Gently rub it in. See how quickly the pain disappears.

Try Mustard for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

ADVERTISING FINE FOR CHILDREN!

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath, and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely-known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. Recognized by their olive color. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those irritable spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in active healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 15c, 50c and 60c sizes.

$4,260,000 INCREASE IN BUSINESS STATUS

Seven Industries Added to City's Roster in January, 18 Report Expansions.

Seven Industries have been added to St. Louis in the first month of 1928, according to the monthly report of George C. Smith, director of the Industrial Bureau, made Saturday to members of the Industrial Club of St. Louis. Expansion of 18 industrial concerns was also reported, with the statement that the new concerns and the expansions involved an investment of $4,260,000.

These concerns, new and old, occupy an added 1,399,924 feet of floor space, of which 1,084,937 square feet is new construction, and have added $12 to the number of industrial employees. In addition, the reopening of a department previously closed by one industry has given work to nearly 1000 persons.

The largest acquisition shown in the report is that of the J. G. Penney Co. warehouse. The proposed 12-story warehouse for chain store merchandise, at Fourteenth and Spruce and Poplar streets, will have more than 825,000 square feet of floor space.

Industrial and business figures for the month of January show that building permits increased 187.14 per cent over January, 1927. Bank clearings increased 1.87 per cent. Debts to individual accounts increased 8.94 per cent, and total debts to individual and bank accounts increased 3.51 per cent. Real estate transfers increased 1.73 per cent in St. Louis and 9.86 per cent in St. Louis County. Industrial failures (liabilities) decreased 98.13 per cent. Postoffice receipts decreased 6.26 per cent. Water consumption increased 1.87 per cent. Telephone calls increased 1.19 per cent, and installations .18 per cent. Street car passengers decreased 4.66 per cent, and bus transportation increased 12.46 per cent. Industrial gas sales increased 7.55 per cent, and industrial electricity increased 22 per cent.

Building contracts awarded in St. Louis during January, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation, were $7,184,500, as compared with $4,293,500 for January, 1927, an increase of 14.16 per cent.

FIGHT ON FENCES PLANNED TO END LARGE ROBBERIES

Loss of $500,000,000 Suffered Annually by Business From Warehouse Thieves, Report Says.

BILL TO PUNISH DEALERS PREPARED

National Crime Commission Plans Federal Measure to Check Truck Robberies, Now Numerous.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Elimination of the "fence" who deals in stolen property, and of the highly organized gangs who loot warehouses for him on fat commissions, is aimed at in the proposed national stolen property law sponsored by the National Crime Commission, of which Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Wilson war Cabinet, is acting chairman.

The original bill was drafted by Congressman Pierella H. La Guardia but the bill now in congressional committee is a redraft of the La Guardia measure, written by United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle of New York.

La Guardia, on advice from Tuttle that his bill allowed loopholes for large-scale criminals, withdrew his bill and substituted Tuttle's.

A special committee of the Crime Commission, after exhaustive study, determined that more than $500,000,000 in losses are suffered yearly by business firms through the depredations of warehouse and truck thieves working in conjunction with large-scale "fences." The "fence," the Crime Commission reports, on whom the warehouse "jacket" depends, rarely is brought to book because the laws of the states are inadequate and vary widely.

To End Fences' Evasion. The new statute, Baker asserts, will make it impossible for the "fence" to escape judgment for the "big-time" burglaries and robberies he underwrites for profit.

"It seems conclusively proved," Baker said, "that the warehouse or truck thief shows an increasing tendency to form a sort of business association with a number of his fellow criminals and to engage, not in individual robberies of small amounts, but in thefts of merchandise on a large scale."

"It is only recently that a robbery of this kind involved the shooting or disabling of nine watchmen in a large warehouse. Whole train loads of silks have been held up. The magnitude of these operations is constantly increasing. Such quasi-business organizations would disappear over night if there was not also an equally well organized and businesslike association of men to receive and store the goods, pay a percentage of the value, and distribute the goods at bankrupt prices throughout the country to perfectly honest merchants who have thus unwittingly taken advantage of another's crime to cause a further loss through ruinous competition with honest manufacturers and distributors."

Have Wholesale Markets. The elimination of the criminal forces will result in the dismantling of these organizations, as they must have a wholesale market to make their work profitable. It is the plan of the commission's committee that this also will reduce the actual number of criminals, as many of this new type of robber would not be drawn into single-crime crimes for small amounts.

The existence of the criminal fence also is primarily responsible for many wanton murders committed in the course of raids by these newly organized business associations of thieves. The apprehension of these criminal bands, with the facilities for quickly disappearing offered by the automobile, and their ability to smash from one State and turn up hundreds of miles away, forms one of the still unsolved problems of modern crime. Heavier sentences and more efficient justice undoubtedly will have effect, but it cannot be said that any real solution of this modern problem has yet been brought forward.

Warehouse Owners, Thieves. However, in the case of the criminal receiver and distributor of stolen goods, we have a very different situation. By necessity, he must have a permanent place of business and storage warehouse. He must pose as an unsuspected member of the business community. He cannot move from place to place as the criminal who gets his goods around in his pocket. Instead, he must trust to the difficulties of detection and the laxness of our laws for his immunity, a trust which I am sorry to say, has been somewhat justified in the past."

In commenting on the bill he introduced, Tuttle said: "I have had in mind that the business of receiving stolen goods is a very profitable one."

RIGHT ON FENCES PLANNED TO END LARGE ROBBERIES

BILL TO PUNISH DEALERS PREPARED

National Crime Commission Plans Federal Measure to Check Truck Robberies, Now Numerous.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Elimination of the "fence" who deals in stolen goods is one of the most important steps in the fight against crime, according to a report made today by the National Crime Commission, of which Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, is chairman. The report, which is being prepared by a special committee of the commission, after exhaustive study, estimated that more than $500,000,000 is lost annually in losses suffered yearly by business firms through the operations of warehouse and truck thieves, working in conjunction with large-scale "fences." The "fence," the commission report, is the man who receives stolen goods from the thief and sells them to the public. He is the link between the thief and the public, and his elimination is considered the most important step in the fight against crime.

FAMOUS LEANING TOWER OF PISA TO BE PROPPED

Work of Safeguarding the Structure Expected to Take Four Months.

By the Associated Press. PISA, Italy, Feb. 13.—Repairs destined to prop the famous leaning tower of Pisa will be undertaken shortly under the supervision of the Ministry of Education and Fine Arts. The major cost of the work, which is likely to take four months, will be borne by the State, but the Commune of Pisa and private sources have contributed 20,000 lire (about $1000).

ANNIVERSARY OF SINKING OF MAINE COMMEMORATED

United Spanish War Veterans Honor Memory of Sailors Who Lost Lives.

The approaching thirtieth anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, which occurred Feb. 15, 1898, was observed yesterday afternoon by United Spanish War Veterans with ceremonies on the Municipal Bridge. Four wreaths of flowers were cast into the Mississippi from the center span, a firing squad fired a salute and a bugler sounded "taps" in memory of the men who lost their lives on the Maine.

Among the speakers, A. G. Abreu, Cuban consul, expressed the gratitude of Cubans for the freedom gained in the Spanish-American war. Other speakers were Julian Anderson, president of the Municipal Council, United Spanish War Veterans; Charles W. Seaman, departmental commander; C. O. Pearce and Mrs. Emma Evans, departmental president of the ladies' auxiliary of the United Spanish War Veterans.

One of the participants was Lewis W. Hahn, past 90 years old, a veteran of the Civil War and the Spanish-American War.

WOULD COMPEL CANDIDATES TO STATE VIEWS ON DRY ACT

Congressman La Guardia Makes This Proposal in Letter to Senator Borah.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The suggestion that Senator Borah inquire of presidential aspirants as to their willingness to sign a $200,000,000 appropriation for "vigorous and faithful enforcement" of the prohibition law was made by Representative Laguardia (Rep.), New York, in an open letter to the Idaho Senator yesterday.

Declaring Borah should so define the term in his questionnaire to presidential candidates as to force them to declare themselves on this point, La Guardia inquired whether it might not "be well to ascertain by real enforcement and the total cutting off of liquor supply whether or not the people of the country really want prohibition."

La Guardia charged that "under the present system where with the meager number of prohibition officials, enforcement especially in the so-called dry states, is left entirely to the states, we have less than one-half of one per cent enforcement."

FRENCH ENVOY TO HOLY SEE DIES OF HEART AILMENT

M. Doulet Stricken With Influenza When in Rome; Ropes Offers Special Prayers.

ROME, Feb. 13.—The French ambassador to the Holy See, M. Doulet, died suddenly yesterday after having been stricken with influenza last night.

The ambassador attended the opening of the Pontifical Institute of Archeology Saturday afternoon, and because he felt ill he decided not to attend a dinner at the Spanish Embassy in the evening. Mme. Doulet attended the dinner and when she returned found her husband suffering with a high fever.

The attending physician declared the Ambassador's heart was unable to stand the pressure of high fever and he passed away this morning after receiving extreme unction. Pope Pius offered special prayers yesterday for the disorderly demonstration which broke up the services at St. Cuthbert's Church on several Sundays.

As on previous attempts to give a "song-eucharist," the congregation broke into loud hymns and general laughter. The vicar mumbled his prayer to appeal for solemn conduct.

Finally the vicar called police with whom he moved through the congregation, taking the names of the disturbers. After a large part of the congregation had left the vicar announced that owing to blasphemy in the church the service was suspended. This announcement only provoked fresh shouts of "We want the Church of England services."

A large force of police escorted Lauria to the vicarage. It was stated legal proceedings will be taken against the disturbers. The protests have been growing weekly, the first occurring after publication of the Malines conversations intended to bring about reunion of the Anglican and Catholic churches.

34 LIVES LOST IN HEAVY STORM IN NORTH EUROPE

Terrific Gale Sweeps From British Isles to Norway; Crippled Liners Make Port Many Hours Late.

SIX MEN DROWNED WHEN DREDGE SINKS

Torrential Rains Accompany Hurricane in England, Causing Floods; Houses Blown Away.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Feb. 13.—Crippled shipping craft limped into port today and the toll of the gale which swept Western Europe and the North Atlantic over the week-end is known to be 34 lives. The loss of property was heavy.

Twenty-five lives were lost in Scandinavia and nine in Great Britain. Accidents to shipping were just becoming known although the gale spent itself early Sunday. After the dredge vessel Grinkel sank in the Morsey River six of the crew were missing and they were listed among the casualties today.

Houses were blown down, roofs carried away and a torrential rain-fall which accompanied the hurricane caused fresh floods in the British Isles. The wind blew at an average of 70 miles an hour at Liverpool with occasional gusts reaching 104 miles, while on the opposite side of England at Tynemouth it was only a gentle two-mile breeze.

Tug Disabled in Storm.

The British steamship Snadown Castle, from Tyn to New York, reported by wireless that it was returning to Cobh with its forehold full of water. The steamship American Farmer arrived at Plymouth 30 hours late. Its propellers were damaged four days out of New York and it made its way through heavy gales. The steamship Montclair reached Liverpool 24 hours late.

Radio reports told of a thrilling struggle between the tanker Varand and the sea on the ship's maiden trip from New Orleans to London. For 12 days the Varand has been in tow of the Dutch tug Zwartee because of serious damage to its rudder and propeller. The ship also had sprung a leak.

Towing the tanker through the heavy seas became so difficult that another Dutch tug, the Seine, was sent to the assistance. The hurricane completely disabled the Seine, carrying away the compass, rails, ventilators and wrecking the wireless apparatus.

Millions of Dead Fish.

The liner Muenchen left her course to assist the crippled tug and two other Dutch tugs, which had previously gone to the assistance of the liner Pastergdyk, also came to the aid of the Seine, which returned to Cobh under convoy. The Varand, according to the latest advices, was south of Ireland and still in tow.

Along the Scandinavian coast shipping was demoralized and the sea pounded with such force that millions of dead fish were washed ashore. Scientists attributed the death of the fish to sulphurated hydrogen which came to the surface from the ocean bottom when disturbed by the force of the gale.

A fish famine is threatened because housewives refuse to buy the fish fearing they are poisoned.

POLICE AGAIN CALLED TO GUARD VICAR AGAINST CONGREGATION

Disturbance in Darwin, England, Due to Pastor's Insistence on "Song Eucharist" Services.

DARWIN, England, Feb. 13.—The police again were forced to protect the Rev. F. B. Lauria yesterday from the disorderly demonstration which broke up the services at St. Cuthbert's Church on several Sundays.

As on previous attempts to give a "song-eucharist," the congregation broke into loud hymns and general laughter. The vicar mumbled his prayer to appeal for solemn conduct.

BROKERS CALLED IN MOVE TO TRACE BONDS G. O. P. GOT

Officers and Employees of New York Firm Supplied by Senate Oil Inquiry Into Sinclair's Gift.

INVESTIGATION TO CONTINUE THURSDAY

Counsel for R. W. Stewart, in 74-Page Brief, Assails Power of Senate to Arrest Magnate.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A new bunch of subpoenas was prepared today by the Senate Teapot Dome Committee for service on officers and employees of the New York brokerage firm of Potter & Co., who are to be here when the oil investigation is resumed Thursday.

The immediate purpose of the examination of these witnesses is to trace $75,000 in Liberty bonds which Harry F. Sinclair, owner of Teapot Dome, turned over to the Republican National Committee in 1923 to assist in making up the deficit after the Harding campaign in 1920.

Will H. Hays, former chairman of that committee, who solicited the contribution from Sinclair, will be called before the committee after the brokers and their records have been examined. Hays testified before the committee in 1924 that he asked Sinclair and a number of other men to help wipe out the deficit and that the oil operator gave $75,000.

Although many witnesses, the most recent of whom was John D. Rockefeller Jr., have failed to enlighten the committee as to the ultimate destination of most of the $2,000,000 of the Continental Trading Co. Ltd. of Canada, it will continue its efforts to uncover some one who can and will disclose the long-sought information.

Power of Senate.

Counsel for Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana today submitted to the District of Columbia Supreme Court, a 74-page brief in support of Stewart's effort to make permanent a writ of habeas corpus freeing him from arrest by the Senate for refusing to answer questions asked by the oil committee.

The brief, submitted by J. Edgar Atkins, a Washington attorney, contended the Senate was without power to arrest Stewart when he was at that time before a Senate committee and under subpoena. Atkins argued that the power of the Senate was no greater than that of a court and contended that in court, if a refusal to answer was found, the only allowable procedure was to order the witness to answer the questions and then punish him if he refused.

The Senate resolution, the brief said, does not call for information essential for the exercise of the power of legislation, but is an attempt at exercising a judicial function, beyond the powers of the Senate, and authorizes an inquiry into the private affairs of individuals.

"We respectfully submit," the petition concluded, "that it clearly appears that petitioner has answered every question put to him by the Senate Committee, the answers to which could throw any possible light upon the matters of public interest. His testimony shows that he knew nothing about any illegal, dishonest or dishonest use of the bonds at one time belonging to the Continental Trading Co."

"This case involves the most sacred right of the citizen. Petitioner, in the exercise of his best judgment, conscientiously believed that his constitutional rights were invaded. It was, therefore, not only his right, but his duty to himself and to every citizen of the country to fearlessly stand upon his constitutional rights at whatever risk or cost to himself."

Ex-Chairman Adams Denies He Knows of Oil Bonds.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The Republican party wiped out its deficit at the end of the Harding campaign of 1920 with contributions obtained from 10,000 or more contributors. John T. Adams, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, today denied he knew of the bonds.

If the party received any funds from the profits derived in the Teapot Dome deal by Harry F. Sinclair and others, he knows nothing of it.

Adams is on board the SS. Conte Blacommone en route to Italy. Upon announcement by Senator Norris of the Senate Oil Inquiry Committee that Basil Manly, an investigator of the People's Legislative Service, had traced $25,000 of the Continental Trading Co.'s Liberty bonds to the Republican National

13 MINERS LOSE LIVES TRYING TO RESCUE ONE BODY

Eight Others Struggle for Two Miles to Safety in Pit Near Whitehaven, England.

By the Associated Press. WHITEHAVEN, England, Feb. 13.—The Haig mine pit where 13 men lost their lives yesterday in the third explosion in five years, was sealed again today. Fifty-six lives have been lost in the series of explosions.

The 13 victims were members of an exploring party of 21 who had entered the mine in search of the body of one of four miners killed last December. It was the first time the workings had been penetrated since the December explosion.

The searchers had reached the scene of the December explosion when four blasts occurred within 10 minutes. Foul air soon filled the mine, preventing all attempts at rescue.

The eight who reached the surface had left the main party to recharge their flashlight batteries and eat luncheon. They were about 500 yards away when the explosion occurred.

Just Finished Eating. "Just as we finished eating," said one of the survivors, "we heard a dull rumbling, then came a second explosion and we all started to get our apparatus and go to the rescue of the others. A third explosion blinded us and before we could find our equipment we were knocked semi-conscious by a fourth."

"Only one lamp remained lighted. Half crawling, half walking, guided only by wagon lines, we struggled the two miles to the pit shaft. It seemed an eternity—and at times I never thought I could win through. The explosion had filled the air with a thick dust. We reached the surface completely exhausted."

Thirty-nine lives were lost through an explosion in the same pit on Sept. 5, 1922.

Bones of 50 Other Men and Women Who Had Been Sacrificed, Lay Beside the Royal Bier.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—Discovery of the tomb of a Sumerian Queen, apparently left undisturbed by vandals who plundered her royal husband's grave nearby some 5000 years ago, has given to the joint expedition of the University of Pennsylvania and the British Museum the richest treasures thus far found in Ur of the Chaldees, a report received from Ur today reveals.

In the newly discovered graves were lying not only the body of the Queen, whose name, "Shub-Ad," appears on a cylinder seal she wore, but also two crowns of gold and lapis lazuli, gold finger rings, necklaces, amulets, a richly decorated cloak, innumerable small and large vases and a variety of other excellent examples of early Sumerian art.

In addition to their value from an archeological standpoint, the two tombs contribute information of the greatest importance for the history of architecture, in that both tombs had doorways crowned by a true arch of baked bricks and their chambers were vaulted with arches of which a few rings still remained, according to C. Leonard Woolley, director of the expedition.

Heretofore the oldest arch known in the world was found over a drain dating back to the third millennium B. C. and discovered in Nippur by the university's expedition at that ancient city.

"At one end of the chamber were piled the offerings, vessels of clay and copper, stone and silver, many of them broken and distorted but others wonderfully preserved. At the other end, on a wooden bier at the head and foot of which were crouched the bodies of attendants, lay the bones of the Queen, Shub-Ad.

"The Queen's headpiece, worn originally over a great wig, was a marvelous sight as it was laboriously disengaged from stones and earth. Coiled after coiled of gold ribbon surrounded the hair; above these and across the forehead ran a frontlet of lapis lazuli and carnelian beads from which hung heavy rings of gold and silver. "The side of the bier was a second crown. Against a background of minute gold and lapis lazuli beads sewed on a leather fillet were gold ornaments of a remarkable sort. Besides the conventional flowers this collection included ears of corn, clusters of pomegranates with the fruit and leaves rendered with realism, and pairs of little animals, among them stags and rams, antelope and bearded bulls.

Taken by themselves the figures are admirable examples of miniature sculpture; rest in their original color they form a dainty head-dress as a queen could desire."

Grave Literally a Shambles. "Two lumbering four-wheeled wagons had been backed down the slope and stood ranged alongside each other at the end of the pit. Each wagon was drawn by three oxen whose skeletons lay stretched at the ramp's foot. The ground lay dead at the heads of the oxen; the drivers were across the seats of the wagons.

"The rest of the grave area was literally a shambles, for in the narrow space were strewn 50 bodies of those sacrificed. Duellists fell at stake and they wonder what Rostand will do if Veber slaps his face publicly according to the ethics of 'The good old days.'"

Power Denied Supreme Court. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Further extension of the powers of the United States Supreme Court in establishing uniform rules for lower courts in common law cases was disapproved today by the Senate Judiciary Committee. By a vote of 16 to 5, the committee ordered an adverse report on a bill which would grant such an extension of power. CRITIC REFUSES TO FIGHT DUEL OVER PLAY

Son of Author of "Cyrano de Bergerac" Declines Challenge From Writer of Farce.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World. Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Publishing Co. (The New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 13.—Maurice Rostand, poet, playwright and son of the author of "Cyrano de Bergerac," has been challenged to fight a duel by Pierre Veber, prominent writer, and has refused.

Speaking for the younger school of French authors, he explained its students will not stand for a return to the days when literary disputes were settled with the sword.

The quarrel arose over a new play which Veber had produced at the Scala in Paris. Rostand did not like the show and said so in strong language in Le Soir, of which he is dramatic critic, attacking some vulgarities which he alleged entered into Veber's farce.

Veber promptly sent his seconds to the critic, who received them politely, but refused to discuss the possibility of a duel.

"If a dramatic critic cannot express his opinion of a play without being expected to let himself be potted at with a pistol or expose his ribs to the vicious prod of an author who does not like what was printed about his play, then intellectual freedom is a vain expression," Rostand explains.

"Besides, I have written plays myself and remember Veber as a dramatic critic handling me pretty roughly. Yet I did not object or send him my seconds. I certainly will not fight a duel on such a pretext."

Literary circles are divided over Rostand's attitude. Duellists feel the whole principle of the duel is at stake and they wonder what Rostand will do if Veber slaps his face publicly according to the ethics of "The good old days."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its editorial principles; that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrongs, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Art in Washington.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

FROM time to time artists have been given permission to copy the paintings in the dome of the national Capitol and in this way defects have been discovered. I thought it would interest you to know some of the comments that have been made concerning the paintings.

Take the picture where Pocahontas is being baptized. An Indian is sitting down with his left leg bent. This Indian was a remarkable man in that he had six toes.

In the painting which refers to the landing of Columbus it is evident that that was rather a remarkable day because you will find the wind blowing in two directions at the same time—one flag blowing in one direction and two flags blowing in another direction.

In the picture where Washington is resigning his commission two little girls are standing in front and five hands are clearly seen as being the property of these two little girls.

There are two other pictures and if you will examine them you will find that in the American flag in one picture, underneath the field, there is a white stripe, which is correct (according to the flag that I see flying from my window at the present time). In the other picture there is a red stripe underneath the field.

Wants a Rest From Light Opera.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I SEE the Garden Theater is to be converted into a light opera amusement place. Why duplicate the performances at our Municipal Opera? If the classics that have been given at the Garden Theater did not attract large enough audiences to make the undertaking a paying venture, why not introduce such plays as have been so successful at the Empress Theater? In Denver at the Garden Theater 10 weekly performances given by stock companies at low prices prove most successful. Try it here and give us a rest from light opera. SEESEE.

Greatest Braggarts Since the Romans.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN answer to W. D. C. I am a realist in politics (most of our statesmen unfortunately are not), and as such I have little faith in the League of Nations. In my opinion the League is bound to go to the way of similar schemes of the past: the Holy Alliance for instance. As far as America is concerned, I think it is as dead as Caesar and only a few obstinate visionaries persist in ignoring that fact.

In regard to Big Bill's antics: His battle with King George is at least entertaining. Big Bill's activities, I think, are a natural reaction to a surfeit of British propaganda. The British pose as a very modest people when they are really the greatest braggarts since the Romans. They even claim to have invented baseball. If we owe our common law to them, I am in favor of a war to make them take it back. If the Anglo-Saxon race is a great race for that, let it beget so many blue-eyed Puritans? PRO-AMERICAN.

For an Underground Plaza Garage.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WITH the completion of the purchase of land for the Plaza, St. Louis will own several blocks of valuable centrally located real estate.

I would suggest that instead of purchasing land on the river front, the city construct in these blocks, underground parking spaces or garages for autos; either in single blocks, or in two or more connected together by tunnels under the streets. Entrance to these spaces could be the Plaza and made as inconspicuous as possible or from purchased land in adjacent blocks with connecting tunnels.

Cover over the whole with earth for grass and shrubbery, and under small exposed ledges of rock conceal ventilators. Construct rest rooms and comfort stations and space for accessory shops, etc.

This plan would provide central parking space which could be reached without driving through the congested area from Twelfth to Broadway. W. E. R.

NO AMERICAN LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

It is in our opinion a pity that the Sixth Pan-American Conference now in session at Havana has voted against the creation of an American League of Nations.

Its refusal to do this, a refusal in which the United States joined with such countries as the Argentine and Brazil, leaves the situation in Latin-America no better than it was before the conference was held. Some of the smaller countries, such as Costa Rica, which has a stable government, and Colombia, which is developing her natural wealth and has no time for war, voted for such a union; but for one reason and another almost every other Latin-American country rejected the proposal. One would imagine Mexico, which has so greatly suffered from the aggressiveness of the United States, would have jumped at such a proposal, but she voted against it. Mexico is trying to conciliate the United States. She enjoys in the ministry of Mr. Morrow an opportunity to play one group of American business men, and much the better group, against another. She is not going to anger us by voting for a super-government in America which may attempt to apply some of our own professions to our practices.

Nor do either Chile and Peru, which are still quarreling over Tacna-Arica, want a league of nations. They are fearful that such a power may step in and settle this dispute by compulsion. Since either country would rather perish than concede anything, the votes of both Chile and Peru against the league of nations went in with considerable emphasis.

Indeed, the motives of most of those voting against a league are, like our own, hardly those which conduce to happiness and stability in Latin-America. We do not want a league to tell us how far we can go in such matters as the present unfortunate mess in Nicaragua. Our national go to the State Department and get its endorsement of loans made to these little countries. This endorsement means that if anything happens the navy will go to the support of these loans. This is precisely what has been going on in Haiti for fourteen years and in Nicaragua for nineteen years. It is a breeder of little wars, and we usually have two or three of them on our hands. We seem never to think of the Latin-Americans as potential friends and customers, but always as inferiors who can be exploited.

No blame can attach to Latin-America for refusing to take a forward step when we ourselves set the bad example of not being willing to do so. The whole stage is one that we have set ourselves. The play is our own, and they who strut and struggle upon it are but the children of our own folly.

FELIX VON LUCKNER IN AMERICA.

Count Felix von Luckner, sailorman, hero and gentleman extraordinary, he who made many an allied tar shiver his timbers during the war, has elected, he announces, to become an American citizen. Here he will become Mr. von Luckner. He speaks English and has spent considerable time in America and with Americans. But Felix von Luckner has far greater claims to offer. His bravery and strategy in destroying allied shipping, with hosts of enemies at his heels, his obedience to orders, his nobility and his sympathy toward his prisoners, the faithfulness with which he served his country—all these are attributes that American schoolboys are taught to cherish in their national heroes. Even von Luckner's early history, his running away from a titled home as a boy, his vow not to return to it until he could do so as a German naval officer, and his fulfillment of that vow, smack of the pioneering spirit of this land.

ARMY AND NAVY BRACK.

Now that Army has booked the University of Nebraska for Nov. 24, the day on which it would have played Navy, and Navy has booked Princeton for the same date, it looks as though the threatened break between the two military schools was at last a reality. And this is surely lamentable, for it does away with a game that has always provided something fine in the way of football and unique in the way of spectacles. But it is not only lamentable. It is quite incomprehensible. So accustomed have we become to this game that we have come to look upon it as an authentic institution, like the direct election of Senators and the writ of habeas corpus. In fact, most of us were under the impression that these two teams had only one reason for existence, and that was to play each other. That their other games counted, except as practice for the big show, never occurred to us; and to learn that the big show has been called off leaves us bewildered, as though we beheld our silver dollar divide itself into two halves, like a hot biscuit, and go rolling off in two directions, E Pluribus Unum one way and In God We Trust the other.

The break, of course, will not endure for many seasons. It flies in the face of right reason and romance, to say nothing of the box-office; and for that reason it will have to be patched sooner or later. Those of us who cherish the memory of the Howards, Belknapes, Phippens, Gareys, Tiptons and Wilsons who have helped make a gray day turn rosy purple will hope that the rapprochement will not be long delayed.

CATCHING THE FENCE.

To meet the new fashions in crime, holds the National Crime Commission, we must adopt new fashions of prevention, apprehension, and prosecution.

The report of its special committee for studying the problem of the fence describes both the new methods of the criminal and the committee's own notion how he may be checkmated. Crime, we are reminded, is now one of the recognized big businesses. No longer is the criminal craftsman allowed to vend his solitary wares. He must belong to one or another great syndicate. No longer does the accomplished crook stalk tinklers. He drives a great motor truck, and carries off the contents of warehouses or lofts. And he sells his plunder to fences who operate chains of warehouses, have efficient selling organizations, and ship with comparative security in interstate commerce.

It is the fence whom the Crime Commission has chosen to attack as the most vital point in this nefarious chain, and it is through the fence's use of interstate commerce that it makes its attack. Through Congressman La Guardia of New York, the Commission has introduced a bill to penalize anyone who sends, transports or receives stolen goods shipped by interstate commerce. Only by Federal legislation, maintains the Commission, can the emergency be met.

Perhaps the proposal naturally deserves the most respectful consideration. The issue of constitutionality hardly enters in, as the proposed measure is in this regard on a par with the Federal act regarding stolen automobiles. Consideration, rather, should be directed elsewhere. It should be ascertained whether the States may not be able to meet the new conditions by their present laws, which penalize the fence and his associates. It should be determined whether it would be best, from an administrative standpoint, to burden our overloaded Federal courts with duties now handled by State courts.

The decision, in fine, must be arrived at by a careful balancing of advantages and disadvantages. If, after this is done, the proposal of the Crime Commission promises more of the former than the latter, it will merit a trial.

LINDBERGH'S AMAZING RECORD.

The towering exploits of the new race of distance flyers—of Coates and Lebriz, Chamberlin and De Pinedo, of Brock and Schlee and the great Cobham himself—fall almost into mediocrity beside the amazing aviation record that Lindbergh has made since he abandoned the business of flying the mail just a year ago.

Beginning last spring he has crossed the continent in two jumps, made the only perfect trans-Atlantic flight, jumped from New York to St. Louis and back to New York in single hops, toured the 48 states without a single mishap, made a 3200-mile nonstop flight from Washington to Mexico City, and added thousands of miles more in nonstop flights over strange and dangerous tropical country.

In his flights he has missed his schedule only three times—each time because of bad weather. On only one occasion has he failed to reach his destination in a single jump. On no occasion has he had a forced landing, even in the tour in which his landing wheels touched airdromes in every state in the nation.

During the period of his greatness the "Spirit of St. Louis" has flown 49,500 miles. It has been aloft 468 hours on 467 flights. Never has its trusty motor failed, never has the little monoplane failed to answer its controls, on the ground or in the air. Mechanical excellence, splendid design; these are phrases which explain in part the performance of the plane. But above them all is the guiding spirit of a real genius, the slim young man who flies the plane. Unquestionably, when the future historian sets down the great flying events of the past two years, he must, from the very record, indite the name of Lindbergh as the greatest pilot, the most finished aviator the world has yet known.

"SWEET LAND OF LIBERTY."

Someone has discovered that the Statue of Liberty is not recognizable. This is no new discovery. For some years now most of us have looked upon the Lady with the Torch as symbolical of something in which we once believed. During these years many Americans sailing by on the way to Europe have heaved a sigh of relief with the exclamation, "Thank heaven, we shall soon be in the land of liberty"; and others coming home have made wry faces at the Lady. The very young have scarcely known what the Lady stood for in the days of their fathers. She is more or less of a stranger now.

The conclusion having been forced that the Lady with the Torch is not recognizable, it is proposed now to give her a bath, and it is hoped that she will seem as of old. But there is something more than dirt that changes the aspect of the Lady. We may wash and wash and she will seem an exotic as long as the liberties of the people are denied legislation. Washing a certain law off the statues will do more to make the Lady recognizable than any amount of washing of the bronze. The trouble with her is within, not without.

When she is washed men will still smile as they steam by her. As long as it is a crime for a citizen to drink a glass of beer the Lady will seem reminiscent of something that has been taken away.

MILLER STEPS NEARER JAIL.

Col. Thomas W. Miller, Alien Property Custodian under President Harding, was brought one step nearer prison by the decision of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals affirming Judge Knox's sentence of 18 months in Atlanta and $5000 fine. Miller will appeal to the Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari; failing of relief there, nothing will be left for him but to serve his sentence and pay his fine.

Because of the statute of limitations Federal Attorney Buckner was obliged to try Miller not for bribery but on the rather roundabout charge of conspiring to defraud the Government of his "unbiased and unprejudiced services" in allowing an unjust claim of the American Metal Co. Judge McInton of the Circuit Court writes in the prevailing opinion that Miller's conviction "brands him as unfaithful to a trust imposed upon him in high office."

Out of the corruption in the palmy days of the Ohio Gang Forbes and Miller are conspicuous as two men in high place who have received prison sentence for their misdeeds. Perhaps the race of others is not yet run. The law is patient, but it has a long memory.

THE NICARAGUAN CANAL.

When Secretary Kellogg announced in Montreal that traffic through the Panama Canal was becoming so heavy we should shortly have to build a canal across Nicaragua, it is to be trusted he was not trying to intimate that this explained our presence in that little republic.

Such an explanation simply would go down for more than one plausible reason. We have been talking of such a canal since the Panama Congress of 1826. In 1858 Congress actually went so far as to incorporate a company to build it, and then let it lapse for want of finances. Finally, by the Bryan-Chamorro treaty of 1916, we gave Nicaragua $3,000,000 for the right to construct it. It would be desperately hard for Secretary Kellogg or anyone else to explain why we suddenly had to send marines to protect something which had been perfectly secure for many years and under all varieties of regimes.

An even better reason why the Nicaraguan canal fails as an alibi for intervention is the fact that neither Sacaca nor any other Liberal would think of interfering with our right in this matter. Fully as much as the Conservatives, the Liberals want our friendship and our capital. Even intelligent regard for their own safety would keep them from interfering with our rights.

President Coolidge, soon after the first Marines entered Nicaragua, mentioned the canal project as one reason we had intervened. The effect upon the public was, from the President's viewpoint, highly disappointing. If Secretary Kellogg was seeking to do the same thing he will undoubtedly be similarly disappointed.

THE SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS.

What the Mountain Brought Forth

An Arbitration Treaty Has Been Concluded Between France and the United States Which Means Even Less, if That Is Possible, Than the Antediluvian Ones of 1914.

From the New York World.

THE mountain has labored and brought forth the new Franco-American arbitration treaty. We congratulate Mr. Coolidge on his achievement. If he has not advanced the cause of world peace one hair's breadth beyond the standards of 1914 he has probably not sacrificed any of the program made by Mr. Root in 1908 and Mr. Bryan in 1914. This treaty is probably as good as anything we had before the war. If treaties of this kind can now be negotiated with all the other great Powers we shall have done as much to prevent war as we had done when the last war broke out.

This, we admit, an optimistic view of the new treaty, for it is at least arguable that this treaty provides a weaker machinery for maintaining peace than existed in 1914. We prefer, however, to take an optimistic view and to believe that Mr. Coolidge had remained true to the best that was known and practiced in 1914. Our reason for thinking that this treaty is as good as Bryan treaties is that Article I reaffirms the Bryan treaty. It is agreed that "when ordinary diplomatic proceedings have failed" and when "adjudication by a competent tribunal" is not resorted to, the two governments shall submit the dispute for investigation and report. This principle in the Bryan treaties is probably the most constructive contribution to peace made in our time. It is the central principle of the League of Nations. It is the simplest and most realistic device ever invented, and it is reassuring to know that the Coolidge administration appreciates its value.

Article II of the new treaty affirms the principle of the Root-Jusserand treaty of 1908. It would be misleading to say that it calls for arbitration of any dispute. Although words like arbitration are used there is no agreement to arbitrate anything. Article II merely says that if a justiciable dispute appears the two governments will attempt to negotiate a new treaty to arbitrate the dispute. They do not promise to arbitrate the dispute. They do not promise to make a treaty promising to arbitrate the dispute. They merely announce that when the dispute arises they will discuss whether they can agree to have it arbitrated. In other words, this is not an arbitration treaty at all. Neither government is bound to do anything by way of arbitration which it could not do or refuse to do if this treaty did not exist.

WE then come to Article III, which is the only new thing in the whole treaty. This is a very puzzling business. It says that "the provisions of this treaty shall not be invoked in respect of any dispute," the subject matter of which is (a) domestic; (b) affects third parties; (c) involves the "traditional attitude of the United States concerning American questions;" (d) involves France's obligation under the covenant of the League. Now, if this means, as it may mean, that the principle of the Bryan treaties cannot be applied to these excepted matters, then Article III is viciously reactionary. The Bryan treaties, which are reactionary, are excepted from the arbitration procedure when you have already said that you will arbitrate only after a specific agreement. What is the purpose of Article III? Why except four types of disputes from arbitration when you have already agreed to arbitrate all types of disputes?

they may be." Article III seems to say that the Bryan principle is not to be invoked in any dispute involving domestic affairs, third parties, the Monroe doctrine or the League. If that is what Article III means, it bites the heart out of Article I. If it does not mean that, what is the use of it? There was no need to make exceptions to Article II, because Article II does not commit anybody to anything anyway.

Before this treaty is ratified this confusion should be cleared up. We should know specifically whether the exceptions in Article III apply to Article I and II or only to Article II. If they apply to Article I, the treaty is dangerous and should be defeated. If they apply only to Article II, the treaty is badly drafted and should be clarified.

THERE is some ground for thinking that the real purpose of this treaty is not really to advance the cause of arbitration, but to obtain a recognition by international treaty of the "traditional attitude of the United States concerning American questions," commonly described as the Monroe Doctrine. We say this because from the point of view of conciliation and arbitration there was no need to draft a new treaty. The Bryan treaty is still in effect. The Root treaty, while it had expired, could simply have been renewed. There is nothing whatsoever in this treaty that was not in the old treaties, except the formal recognition of the Monroe Doctrine on the part of France and of France's obligation to the League on the part of the United States.

The question arises at once whether any member of the League can honorably agree to Article III of this treaty. It provides that France, as a member of the League, must not interfere with the Monroe Doctrine as defined by the United States. But many of the Latin-American states are themselves members of the League and France has covenanted to help protect them against aggression. If Article III of this treaty means anything, it means that we believe the State Department holds it means, then it abrogates the covenant of the League of Nations in this Hemisphere. And yet in the next paragraph it recognizes all of France's obligations under the covenant! Either we are fooling ourselves or France is fooling herself, or we are both fooling the Latin-American members of the League.

ARTICLE III is on the whole a pretty bad article, which will cause more trouble than it will ever cure. It could profitably be cut out bodily from the treaty in the interest of clarity and international understanding. It adds nothing. It may muddle up a lot.

Mr. Root, who was surely as good a statesman as Mr. Kellogg, did not see the need of muddling up his treaty with this sort of thing. He was wise. It is unnecessary to make specific exceptions to the arbitrable procedure when you have already said that you will arbitrate only after a specific agreement. What is the purpose of Article III? Why except four types of disputes from arbitration when you have already agreed to arbitrate all types of disputes?

STATISTICS PROVE

PERSONALLY, WE EITHER make our own statistics as we go along, or talk louder than the other party in the argument. Those we make up as we go along, as we never are forced to remember them, and they have besides a fine touch of romantic inventiveness. Numbers fish out of a book are such embarrassing things to have around when you want to prove the opposite, anyway. For instance, the Chairman of the Committee on Commerce and Prevention of Highway Accidents, by statistics, that delinquent drivers are responsible for only 51 out of 600 highway crossing accidents. The percentage is slightly higher than that of the almost near-beer. The perfect auto—the one that would not hold—its loss with the accident yesterday. It is admitted that other parts of the automobile—the radiator, for example—have been carried forward in perfection than the brake. But with all faults, the brake does pretty well; in fact, that you had better ask the traffic cop about it. The only thing to be said with such statistics is to forget them, and will anyway.

It can truthfully be said that the choice of the party to a man-of-war, of course, being Willie.

Murder!

"L. O." By Walter S. Masterman. (Dutton.)

SEVERAL months ago there was published a book, the title of which has escaped from memory, by an ingenious psychologist, whose name perhaps doesn't matter, in which practically everything in human nature was explained on the basis of the assumption that men, women and children suffer with a suppressed desire to commit homicide. And perhaps that doesn't matter, either, like so much else that our numerous value-seers are constantly shouting in the wild hope of "catching on," a many of them do.

But wouldn't it be a handy theory to adopt by way of explaining the fact that murder with all the horrible details "goes over big" with the public? Not only does it go over big; but so great, apparently, is the demand for such thrills that our professional murderers are quite unable to supply the demand. They must, therefore, there must be a large and steadily flowing volume of faked-up murder yarns to meet the deficiency.

The situation is a veritable godsend to scores of literary carpenters who might otherwise have to resort to the pick and shovel for an honest living.

But it is probable that the theory wouldn't quite hold water. A clever old gentleman once told the writer that he "liked 'em bloody, and the bloodier the better," yet there was nothing in his record to arouse the slightest suspicion that he had ever slain even the tiniest child.

The question is, most probably, concerned with taste. Secretly, most lives seem drab to those who live them, and there is a very deep need to be lifted out of self-same how. If the higher levels of understanding are not sensitive, then a suitable stimulant will have to be applied to the lower, the primitive levels, which respond most readily to violence. For such purposes, a mysterious and horrible murder, well peppered with the sex motive, is the genuine literary tobacco sauce.

Probably in the vast majority of cases the reading of such books is quite harmless, though now and then some highly suggestive half-wit may conceive the bright idea of going and doing likewise. There is evidence to show that this has happened. It is even probable that, in most cases, the average reader's sense of virtue and integrity is intensified by the vicarious experience in lawlessness. And so it is that even a very poor book can be good for what it is good for.

Since such books must be written, each is to be judged by the cleverness with which the author may do what such authors are supposed to do—write. "L. O." deserves praise, if for no other reason than that the solution of the mystery seems to be

The Week's

By N

ONE can hardly list Al Jolson, Mammy's Favorite Son, as a new film of the week by any means, but the "black-face" comedian, who has started a short tour of the Loew movie houses with his appearance here, is the magnet which is packing 'em in five or six times a day. Tomorrow night a picture on the bill, "Baby Mine," and it is one of those dainty little Hollywood comedies by the side of which "The Calishans and the Murphys" and "The Cohans and the Kelleys in Paris" stand out as models of screen refinement. If you saw either of those last two mentioned classics this may give you a slight inkling into the vulgarity of "Baby Mine." But the audiences won't notice it. They are there to see Jolson and, until he comes on, no one pays any attention to what else happens to be on the screen. Jolson, when he steps out on top of the piano in the orchestra pit, justifies the wait, for he is at his very best as an entertainer before crowds as dense as those which greeted him at every show at Loew's Saturday and yesterday. He gets on a friendly footing immediately by explaining that when he played the legitimate theaters at $14.48 a seat he was out of his element, but now, with the 65 cent patrons, he is right in his own class. After that he sings some new songs, tells some stories and winds up by telling the old Mammy song which made him famous. After that he has considerable trouble in getting off the stage. The crowd demands more and more, and Jolson, willing enough to please, is torn between several emotions. The emotion which he gets must be sweet music to his ears.

CLEVER JUGGLER AT ST. LOUIS

Torino, With Gene Austin Out, Is Main Attraction.

Gene Austin, phonograph record singer, the headliner of the new show at the St. Louis Theater this week, did not appear at the first performance yesterday afternoon. It was announced that he was ill, but that he probably would be able to give his act later. With Austin out, Torino, a juggler in the 1st spot, was easily the best thing on the bill. The man is a marvel. There also was a very interesting patter act by Harry and William, rapid-fire and six "Honey Buns," a musical comedy act, the humor of which centered on the leading man's loss of his teeth. Was your jaw-convulsed?

Murder!

SEVERAL months ago there was published a book, the title of which was "L. O." by Walter S. Masterman. It was a book about a man named L. O. who was a detective. The book was a success. It was a book about a man named L. O. who was a detective. It was a book about a man named L. O. who was a detective.

But wouldn't it be a handy thing to adopt by way of explaining the fact that murder with all the horrible details "goes over his head" the public? Not only does it go over his head, but so great, apparently, is the demand for such thrillers that our professional murderers are quite unable to supply the demand. It is a fact that there must be a large and steadily growing volume of faked-up murder yarns to meet the deficiency.

The situation is a veritable godsend to scores of literary carping men who might otherwise have to resort to the pick and shovel for their next living.

But it is probable that the theory wouldn't quite hold water. A kindly old gentleman once told the writer that he "liked 'em bloody, and the bloodier the better," yet there was nothing in his record to show the slightest suspicion that he had ever slain even the tiniest child.

The question is, most probably, concerned with taste. Secretly, most lives seem drab to those who live them, and there is a very deep need to be lifted out of self-some. If the higher levels of understanding are not sensitive, then a suitable stimulant will have to be applied to the lower, the primitive levels, which respond most readily to violence. For such purposes, a mysterious and horrible murder, well peppered with the sex motive, is the genuine literary tobacco smoke.

Probably in the vast majority of cases the reading of such books is quite harmless, though now and then some highly suggestive half-wit may conceive the bright idea of going and doing likewise. There is evidence to show that this has happened. It is even probable that, in some cases, the average reader's sense of virtue and integrity is intimidated by the vicarious experience in lawlessness. And so it is that even a very poor novel may be good for what it is good for.

Since such books must be written, each is to be judged by the cleverness with which the author may do what such authors are supposed to do, and not by the quality of the book. "L. O." deserves praise, if for no other reason than that the solution of the mystery seems to be something new in solutions. The murder itself is a nice, juicy, horrible one that ought to bring great delight to the most innocuous reader. The throat of the beautiful young actress is cut from ear to ear—and there's your money's worth in the very first chapter.

It is discovered that the victim is in "a certain condition," and that's another quarter's worth at least. The handsome young actor, who has been playing opposite the young lady, is proved guilty by what seems absolutely incontrovertible evidence, and not even his lawyers claim that he was conveniently insane at the time. The handsome young actor is condemned to death.

But, as a matter of fact, his troubles have all been with another woman, the wife of the distinguished playwright in whose dramas the condemned man and the slain actress had appeared. For a while it looks very bad for a certain commandment—and surely that may be regarded as an extra dividend. But happily, as it turns out, the commandment wasn't even so much as a little.

In the end—and here is where the author scores heavily—the playwright is induced, through the inordinate vanity which is said to be characteristic of authors, to give an original radio reading on the last days of a condemned man. What he broadcasts to horrified millions is the shuddering truth about the murder. He himself had done the deed, knowing that, under the circumstances, his wife's virtuous lover would seem guilty.

Since "L. O." is a good example of a well constructed murder yarn, it might be interesting to compare it with some of the great classics, the subject matter of which is no less horrible than that of Masterman's thriller—for instance, The Agamemnon of Aeschylus or The Oedipus Tyrannus of Sophocles. The point would be to determine, if possible, what constitutes the vast difference in values.

Maude Royden's lecture manager states that he has been obliged to turn down more than 400 engagements for the famous English preacher. Is this because the lady wrote a book called "I Believe in God," or because it was noised abroad that she smokes cigarettes?

FRANCE. By Michael and Marienel. (Macmillan.) This comprehensive but compact volume is designed for those who have mastered the elements of French. In a concise but interesting manner it sets forth the salient facts regarding the geography, history, language, art, music, science and social life of France. The organization of the material is a notable feature of the book. Supplemented by a vocabulary and questionnaire, it is valuable as a text for high school and colleges. The many well selected illustrations add much interest to the volume.

MME. LEGINSKA LEADS ORCHESTRA AT "POP"

Pianist Conducts Symphony and Also Is Soloist on Sunday Program.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

The concert at the Odeon yesterday afternoon was something like an old-fashioned melodrama with this implacable music as a sort of heavy menace and the velvet-clad Ethel Leginska playing the role of the plucky heroine. Back and forth they struggled while the members of the audience sat forward in their chairs, held their breath and dug their nails into their palms. Once or twice it looked as if the little girl was going to lose out but at every such threat she countered with another sweeping stroke of the baton and virtue was again triumphant.

Whatever Mme. Leginska's merits or defects as a conductor may be there is no denying that she appeals to the public as a gallant figure. One of the largest audiences of the season cheered her again and again yesterday and frequently it cheered when she was not even displaying her own best musical side. It is fair to assume that they were principally concerned with the novelty of the show. Conducted as such it was not a bad one.

But considered as music, one can only say that, while Madame Leginska showed herself a sound musician, knew her scores thoroughly and even got so far as to impress a sort of style on the orchestra, her performance was not a good exhibition of conductorial technique. The orchestra was conducting her almost as often as she was conducting it. This was not due to any perverseness on the part of the players, because they were all obviously trying to do their best for her but when her beat lagged behind the pulse of the music, they simply couldn't wait for her.

Mme. Leginska was frequently successful, however, in building up smashing dramatic climaxes. She was determined apparently that one should say of her that her touch was lady-like.

Mme. Leginska also appeared as soloist, playing Weber's first piano concerto with the orchestra. In order to be able to direct and play at the same time, she had to have the top lifted from the piano and even at that had to bounce to her feet from time to time in order to pull the whole band in on a passage.

Once or twice she was playing the piano with her left hand, beating time with her right, molding the phrase with her head and using the pedal with her right foot. It seemed a sheer waste that nothing was provided for that left foot.

POOR PLAY AT THE EMPRESS

Don Burroughs Miscast in Bordoni Piece.

For the first time in a long, long time, Director O. D. Woodward and his National Players are presenting a poor play in a poor way at the Empress this week. The play is "The French Doll" by A. Thomas, in which Irene Bordoni appeared on the stage and Mae Murray in the movies. It is argued that both the original production and the movie did good business and that, therefore, the vehicle must be good, but the humor is childish, the situations clumsily contrived.

An impoverished French family launches the daughter of the house at the head of an uncouth, self-made man of money. At the showdown, she jilts him for a promising youngster, but changes her mind and marries the millionaire after all. Don Burroughs is not at all at ease in the role of Wick, the canned fish magnate. Frank Jaquet plays the French papa with Sam Bernard overtones. Alvin Baker as the French mama serves suitably, as does Phil Macy as her son, but, on the whole, Hazel Whitmore, as the girl, comes off best. The pseudo-French accent is terrible.

TWO SHOWS HOLD OVER

Both the American and Shubert theaters this week are presenting the same attractions which they offered last week. "Broadway" is at the Grand boulevard house while the motion picture, "Wings," is still on the screen downtown.

Next Sunday night the Shubert will present Blanche Yurka in "The Squall." On Monday night Robert Mantell will come to the American for a week of Shakespearean plays with a change of bill each night.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.

DAILY of a modern Peppy: Up bedtimes and to breakfast with Jean Knott, the St. Louis limmer, and walked with him through the park and down the avenue.

Home in the late afternoon to work awhile and with my wife to one of the ornate cinema palaces and the orchestra played "Madame Butterfly," very beautifully, but later came so much vaudeville, ballets and such instead of pictures I don't want to go to such amusement halls less.

In the evening some company to dinner and around midnight we decided to go to an Ethiopian cafe in Harlem, reputed gay and terribly wicked, but found it dull as a Sunday in London. So to walk on Stivers' Row. And to bed.

BACK stage a rap on a dress-room door is followed by the query "Are you decent?" That is the manner of learning if the occupant is dressed sufficiently to receive callers.

THE stage door-keeper is a distinct Rialto type—an old man who sits in the shadows puffing a pipe in shirt-sleeved ease. He receives from $25 to $30 a week and is often father confessor to young people of the stage. Many doo-keepers are old character actors and they are generally beloved by the profession.

MORE than a dozen men of some reputation who have visited gyp night clubs have been the targets for a blackmailing racket during the past few months. These respectable and happy family ties are the victims. A day or so after their visit, they are called upon to make good a check bearing their forged signature. They are told by the blackmailers that the pulse of the music was not as good as they had made the check to them for the cash instead of presenting it to the bank. If

JOE BROWNING TAKES FIRST PLAGE AT ORPHEUM THEATER

Baby Peggy in Person, Zelda Santley and Toby Wilson Also Find Favor With Audience.

Joe Browning, who makes up like Fitzpatrick's pictures of the reformer, has the place all to himself at the Orpheum Theater this week. He sings well—at least he has a loud voice—and his jokes keep the crowd laughing. Baby Peggy, of the movies, who was at the St. Louis Theater earlier in the season, is playing a return engagement with her father, who appears with her in the sketch "Pinched." And her mother, who drops in long for a down and a round of applause. She's a pretty little thing, this 5-year-old professional child and as self-possessed as a trouper of 40.

Zelda Santley's imitations average lively and pleasant. Toby Wilson and company have a lot of fun on a Florida beach and let the audience in for all of it. Peaches and Poppy, contortionist dancers appear with Doc Baker who makes an astonishing series of four-second changes of costume in "The Wishing Well." First, but not least on the program are two smiling Negroes, Chilton and Thomas who dance terrifically and show new step, the Lindbergh, which they call the airplane glide.

Jack Holt and Dorothy Revier in the film "Warning" have a perfectly awful time in the hell-holes of Hong Kong—that town seems to be full of them—but there is a good light and it is an effective picture.

BURTON HOLMES HERE TONIGHT

Burton Holmes, the traveler and lecturer, begins his annual visit to St. Louis at the Odeon tonight, when he will tell his hearers of a trip, illustrated by motion and still pictures, to Hawaii.

The Holmes lectures will be given on successive Monday nights for five weeks. Next Monday night his subject will be "The Glories of Paris" and some of the pictures for this talk were made during the time that Col. Lindbergh was in the French capital.

Langenberg, 49 Westmoreland place, during his visit to St. Louis, left yesterday afternoon for Columbia, Mo., where he will lecture before the girl students of Stephens College. Among the controversies which Count Keyserling's appearance here aroused was a discussion about his age. Partially bald, with a grayish beard, the Count's age was estimated at from 40 to 60 years. However, a biographical note in his "Travel Diary of a Philosopher" states that the Count was born in Bethonia, July 29, 1880.

Dempsey Declares He Will

Whether He Fights or Not, Also Depends on Outcome of Tunney's Fight in June, Former Heavyweight Champion Says in Statement.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—"Whether I fight in September depends on Tex and the outcome of Tunney's June fight."

This significant statement from Jack Dempsey, appearing today in the current issue of the Ring, a boxing publication, lent color to the belief that the former heavyweight champion's recent announcement that he might not be a permanent one. At the time Promoter Tex Rickard and Dempsey announced that Jack probably would not fight again because of eye trouble.

Dempsey's latest statement, given in reply to a query by the Ring as to his future plans, is as follows:

"Sorry, cannot go into details. Tex's decision is o. k. with me. Don't worry. Will accept a September date if offered and in competition. Have temporarily ceased training. I told Tex I would not be ready for a June fight, so his new arrangements are all right. September depends on Tex and the outcome of Tunney's June fight."

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 13.—Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish entry in the heavyweight pugilistic ranks, moved his luggage today to a ranch about 20 miles from here, planning to settle down to a two weeks' siege of outdoor conditioning in preparation for his encounter with Giant George Godfrey, Philadelphia Negro.

Godfrey rested yesterday at his Soper's ranch, camp, near Ojai, Cal.

N. L. UMPIRE WILL WORK IN CARDINALS' EXHIBITION GAMES

Following a policy established last year, the Cardinals will take a National League umpire to the training camp at Avon Park, Fla., to umpire the team's exhibition games. Sam Breadon, president stated. Charlie Moran will likely be the official chosen to go, Breadon stated.

This practice is regarded by baseball men as a good one for it provides experienced umpiring for the team and at the same time gives the officials a spring workout.

Roosevelt Five
Has Averaged 40
Points a Game

Rough Riders Have Shown Superiority Over All Rivals in High School Race.

It is becoming more difficult each week-end to see any other outcome in the Public High School Basketball League than a decisive championship victory for the Roosevelt Rough Riders, leading the race at present with five victories in as many games.

Roosevelt has averaged more than 40 points a game so far this season and has shown decided superiority in every department over all opponents. If no further injuries or ineffectualities weaken Lorensen's team, it should win the title this year in a far more convincing manner than last season.

The Rough Riders will be idle in the league pairings this week and Soldan and Beaumont will provide the feature game. Beaumont lost by a one-point margin in the first meeting of the teams and an interesting contest is expected. The game will be played at Beaumont.
In the other tilt, Cleveland and Central will meet at the Cleveland gymnasium. Cleveland should be able to repeat its victory over the same team in the first round.

MUNICIPAL SOCCER ELIMINATION RESULTS

At Fairgrounds No. 2—St.
Thomas (Carondelet No. 1) 4,
St. Mary (Forest Park) 2.
Goals—T. Chartrand (2), Rooney, Maguire and Klecker, Fisher.

At Carondelet No. 1—Geraghtys (Sherman Park) 4, St. Thomas (Carondelet No. 2) 1. Goals—Bussalacchi, Mercurio, Edmerott (penalty) and Stock.

The Municipal Soccer League eliminations are now under way, three favorites advancing to the second round as the result of games yesterday. The Palermo, of Fairground No. 4, defeated St.
Mary and Joseph, juniors of Carondelet Park, 4 to 1; Geraghtys of Sherman Park won from Motorbus
A. C. of Carondelet Park, 4 to 2, and St. Thomas of Carondelet No. 1 turned back the Union Electric of Forest Park, 4 to 2.

Another team favored in the eliminations, the Angelicas, of Fairground No. 2, drew a bye in the first round and will meet the Palermo next Sunday, while the Geraghtys will meet the St. Thomas team in the other semifinal game.

The Palermo eleven's victory over St. Mary and Joseph was clouded by the fact that their goal was crossed for the first time this season. The losers were held scoreless in the first half, but showed unexpected strength in the second half and drove through a goal from scrimmage.

The Geraghtys showed good form in defeating the Motorbus team. They held the lead at the half, 2 to 0, due to goals scored by Bolo and Neagle. In the second half they continued the attack, Neagle scoring after a half minute of play, and F. O'Connell scoring again late in the game. Hennessy registered both tallies for the losers.

St. Thomas displayed a whirlwind attack in winning from the Union, driving through all four goals in the first half. The Union came back strong but were unable to overcome the early lead.

Jim McCarthy, of Tablers, Suspended Indefinitely for Landing on Referee Murphy

Argument Between Player and Official at St. Louis Soccer League Game Comes at End of First Half—Millers
Finally Win, Stopping Wellston, 3-2.

By Dent McKimming.
Jimmy McCarthy, center forward, is lost to the Tabler club for the remainder of the season as a result of punching Referee Robert "Ribby" Murphy during a St. Louis Soccer League match yesterday at Sportsman's Park. President W. E. Barker said that McCarthy's suspension is for an indefinite period, covering the remainder of this season, "and possibly a great deal longer."

Excitement was running high in the game between the Tablers and Morgans. Joe McCarthy scored two minutes after the opening of the match but after 19 minutes of play, Flavin tied the count. Then, in taking a cross from Brengle, Jim McCarthy shot the ball into the Morgan net but the score was disallowed because Referee Murphy had blown his whistle for an off-side before McCarthy shot. A few minutes later, as Flavin attempted to cut between the two Tabler fullbacks, he was brought to earth by Broncorini who kicked the for-ward's legs from under him in trying to intercept the ball. On the resultant penalty kick, Hand scored for the Morgans, putting his team in the lead. Three or four fouls were called by Referee Murphy, most of them against the Tablers.

McCarthy Lands Left.
As the teams walked off the field at half time, Referee Murphy and Jim McCarthy were thrown together, but they weren't walking arm in arm. A dispute arose between player and official and Mc-Carthy brought a sudden and solid left hook across to Murphy's jaw.
The referee went into a clinch and before another blow was attempted two policemen separated the combatants. McCarthy was ordered out of the game and was replaced by Harry Ratigan.

The second half, too, was filled with exciting incidents but there was no more trouble. The final score was 3-2.

Perhaps the most startling event of the afternoon was a victory by the Ben Millers over the Wellstons.
The Millers had lost five straight league games prior to yesterday,
although they are the only St.
Louis team which has been successful in the national cup competition.

Fitzgerald, Schwegel and O'Hara scored for Billy Foley's team to win, 3-2. Ahrens and Eddie Hart counted for the Wellstons.

Fitzgerald's performance at inside left was especially bright, a circumstance which gives rise to hopes of further victories for the Millers in the cup series. "Peewee's" fine passing was reflected in greatly improved work by Mur-roy. In spite of the fact that he was opposed by a fast fullback, Tommy White, Mulroy appeared to be always in position to receive passes, and his crosses were far better than usual.

Thumm Plays Well.
Gene Thumm was at center forward for the first half and although he scored no goals he proved he has good football at his command. He was too eager in the first 15 minutes but when he warmed up to the job he became dangerous.

Curran, at outside right, is taking better care of the position than any man who has been tried there before. He got the ball across the goal mouth in the right fashion.
Once more, the Miller halfbacks played into the hands of the opposition by kicking aimlessly up.

Hahn to Try for Record, Tonight

Will Face Connolly in Two-Thirds-Mile Race at New York Elks Meet.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Lloyd Hahn, America's hope in the coming Olympics, will seek another world record tonight running in a special two-thirds of a mile event at the New York Elks meet in the 1024 Engineers' Armory here.

Hahn, already the holder of four world's marks for indoor track events, will race against Jimmy Connolly of the New York A. C., who established the present standard for the two-thirds of a mile in old Madison Square Garden in 1923. Connolly's time is 2:43 3-5.

The records held by Hahn are for 1000 yards, 1000 meters, 1500 meters and three-quarters of a mile. At one time, Hahn was the champion for the indoor mile.

Hahn, a Nebraskan, and now running under the colors of the Boston A. A., will race against Dr.
Peltzer in the Knights of Columbus track games here on Feb. 29. Ray Conger, who defeated Peltzer on a Chicago meet last Friday, is entered in the same event.

In more than 20 races during the past two years, Hahn has come through without a defeat. He has been victor in eight consecutive races thus far this season.

TILDEN'S 2-TEAM IDEA REFERRED TO
CUP COMMITTEE

Big Bill and Hunter Reiterate Plan to Invade Europe in May—Open Events
OK'd by Net Body.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—The old guard of tennis, both among players and officials, was forced to give ground before the onslaught of new ideas and youthful skill in the first meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association ever held in the West.

One of the most radical decisions of Saturday's meeting was approval of "open" tournaments, giving recognition to those stars who turned "pro" last winter to share in the Legion tour. The association indicated that competition between amateurs and pros, on application of any club in good standing, would be sanctioned, paving the way for an eventual open championships in tennis, like those in golf.

This departure received scant discussion compared to the two-team plan for Davis Cup competition proposed by William T. Tilden II, and Francis T. Hunter, the national doubles champions. After two hours of debate, with Julian S.
Myrick, the "czar" of the tennis association leading the opposition to definite establishment of such a policy, the association voted to refer the proposal to the Davis Cup Committee without endorsement.

Aces Will Be Missing.
Tilden and Hunter reiterated their determination to go abroad in May for foreign competition, so that they may be lost to the Davis Cup squad unless their plan is accepted before that time. The cup committee already has announced its entry in the American zone, the matches to be played in June when Tilden and Hunter likely will be overseas.

The Americans could not hope to capture the cup by competing in the American zone in June and then going abroad to meet the European winners in July, with no chances to get accustomed to different foreign conditions, Tilden and Hunter argued.

Strangler to Finish Training for Title Match Next Monday Night.

Ed "Strangler" Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion, accompanied by Manager Billy Sandow and a staff of heavyweight training partners, arrived in St.
Louis this morning to prepare for Lewis' coming tussle with Joe Stecher, the titleholder, next Monday night in a finish match at the New Coliseum arena.

Lewis has been training almost two months for the Stecher match, having started his long conditioning grind at a Chicago gymnasium shortly after the articles were signed in mid-December and transferring his activities later to a farm on the outskirts of Kansas City, Mo.

Lewis and his training partners,
Pat McGill, the Irish heavyweight;
"Tiny" Roebuck, an Indian boxer and wrestler; and Joe "Toots" Mondt, are stopping at Hotel Chase.
Yesterday was an off-day for champion Stecher. The titleholder took advantage of the Sabbath lay-off, however, to visit the St.

ternoon and engaged in a foursome over the nine-hole golf course with

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12.
ANNOUNCEMENT of an open golf tournament carrying $15,000 in cash to be played over the La Gorce course here March 18, 19 and 20 was made yesterday, after a series of meetings, at which Miami Beach citizens voted to underwrite the purse.

The tournament, officially designated the first annual Miami Beach La Gorce open tournament, carries one of the richest purses in America and in addition $1000 in gold plate will be presented to the winner.
The event will consist of 108 holes of medal play, with a 34-hole qualifying round, the low 64 cards entering the 72-hole final. The pro finishing the 108 holes with the lowest gross will be awarded $5000, with the remainder to be divided among the next 19.

M'DONALD SMITH TRIUMPHS IN SOUTH CENTRAL OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

PROFESSIONAL GETS AGGREGATE SCORE OF 283

Card for 72-Hole Distance Is Five Strokes Under Par—Walsh Is Second, Espinosa Third.

By The Associated Press.
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 12.—MacDonald Smith, New York pro, today had employed four of his characteristic successive low rounds to acquire a new title, the South Central open, which he took yesterday with an aggregate of 283.

Five strokes below par for the 72-hole distance, Mac was but two strokes in front of Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., and Al Espinosa, Chicago, who split second and third place money with 285 apiece. Tommy Armour, national open titleholder, held for the next place with Henry Cuic, Bridgeport, Conn., and Leonard Schmittle, Lima, O. The trio needed 289 each.

Bobby Cruickshank, who was unsuccessful defending his title, contented himself with 291. Prize money totaling $5000 was distributed.

The leading scores: MacDonald Smith, New York, 141-142-283.

Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., 137-148-285.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, 145-140-285.

Tommy Armour, Washington, 142-147-289.

Henry Cuic, Bridgeport, Conn., 149-149-289.

Leonard Schmittle, Lima, O., 148-141-289.

Paul Runyon, Little Rock, 146-144-290.

Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., 142-148-290.

Bobby Cruickshank, New York, 148-143-291.

Harry Cooper, Buffalo, 145-147-292.

Harold Long, Oklahoma City, 147-146-292.

John Golden, Peterson, N. J., 142-151-293.

Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, 142-144-292.

C. E. Clark, Tulsa, 148-146-294.

Tony Nauer, New York, 147-146-295.

EDGEMONT'S RETAIN HALF GAME LEAD IN EAST ST. LOUIS SOCCER

The Edgemont soccer team still has a half-game advantage in the East St. Louis Municipal Soccer League race, as a result of holding the Spanish Americans to a 1-1 tie in the second game of a double-header at Jones Park yesterday afternoon. In the first contest, Prospect Park defeated the American Zines, 2 to 1.

Members of the Executive Committee will meet tomorrow night to discuss the possible closing of the second half of the race, so the post-season series may get under way next Sunday. Edgemont has two games yet to play, but both contests are with weak opponents. The Spanish Americans won the first half.

Winners of the first and second halves will meet in a three-game series to decide the championship for the season.

NEW YORK NATIONALS WIN IN CUP CONTEST

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—The New York Nationals advanced to the third round in the National soccer cup competition, defeating the New York Giants, 2 goals to 1, in a replay of a second round battle here yesterday.

feated Clarence Jackson, 56 to 34, at the Strand Academy last night. The match required 48 innings. Aided by high runs of 7 and 4, Hoppe remained in front, a cluster of 8 by Jackson failing to overcome Hoppe's advantage in the first part of the game. Hoppe gradually increased his lead until he was ahead, 44 to 30. Then Jackson spurred, a run of eight bringing him within six points of Hoppe. Hoppe answered with three in his turn at the table. He followed with a brief run of two and then completed the game with one.

HUMBLE OIL EARNINGS IN 1927 DROPPED $12,285,000

Report Shows $7,100,000 Against $19,385,000 in 1926.

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 13.—Earnings of the Humble Oil and Refining Company fell from $19,385,000 in 1926 to $7,100,000 in 1927, according to a report released today.

No real improvement in conditions in the oil industry was in sight, Mr. Farish declared.

"It is my judgment that any measure of prosperity that comes to the industry this year must come through the utmost conservation and conservation on the part of each individual unit of the industry, largest or small."

The report shows that the Humble Oil and Refining Company's earnings in 1927 were $7,100,000, compared with $19,385,000 in 1926.

FLYER SENDS PLANE IN LOOP 1093 TIMES

Airways Pilot Set What Is Believed to Be Record—Used 200 Horsepower Machine.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 13.

—For the second time within a week, a Twin Cities flyer has set what is believed to be a new world's record for looping the loop in an airplane—1093 loops.

The mark was established yesterday by Charles "Speed" Holman of Minneapolis, chief pilot of the Northwest Airways, who holds several air mail records between here and Chicago.

Flying the 200 horsepower plane in which he won the Class A event in the national cross-country air Derby last year, Holman beat the record set Feb. 4 at St. Paul by Gene Shank, young law student. Shank looped 515 times, or 200 times more than the old recognized mark.

Holman's feat was the more remarkable because his loops were consecutive—that is, he continued sweeping in one great circle instead of climbing to new altitudes after a series of somersaults. "Speed" was in the air slightly more than 4½ hours. Shank's record also was broken yesterday by Lyle Thro, commercial pilot of Minneapolis, who had a 90-horsepower Class B plane. His figure was 542. He was forced down by motor trouble.

SEVEN ARRESTED IN ROW

OVER A CANTOR'S SERVICE
Dispute Among Members of Tiphereth Zion Congregation Goes to Police Court.

Seven members of the Tiphereth Zion Talmud Torah Congregation, Dayton and Glasgow avenues, including Benjamin Mushlin, president of the congregation's school board, were arrested last night after a disturbance in the school building which interrupted the service sung by Cantor Schorr of New York. The dispute is to be continued in police court tomorrow morning.

Besides Mushlin, those arrested said they were: Harry Hoffman, 6037 Washington boulevard; Michael Zemlak, 3108 Sheridan avenue; Morris Mushlin, 6936 Cornell avenue; Sam Kleiner, 4490 St. Ferdinand avenue; Harry Harris, 5602 Enright avenue, and Edward Harris, 6954 Columbia avenue.

Mushlin explained today that when he went to the school yesterday afternoon as president of the board, he found tickets being sold for the Schorr concert. The New York singer's appearance was promoted by Nathan Harris, a former director, Mushlin related, and without permission of the board.

At the time of the concert Mushlin, accompanied by several members of the board, demanded by what authority the performance was taking place. A row ensued and policemen arrested Mushlin and his followers, despite their protests that he was strictly within his rights as president of the board. Harry Harris and other disputants who sought to eject them also were arrested.

Committee, Adams was wirelessly for a statement. His reply was:

"I know nothing of Continental bonds having been received by Republican National Committee, Treasurer Upham and his assistants raised the 1920 deficit after a strenuous campaign of four years extending to every state, and he gave the Senate committee a complete list of the 10,000 or more contributors.

"JOHN T. ADAMS," The Continental Trading Co., a Canadian corporation, was organized to handle the Teapot Dome oil deal. Liberty bonds owned by it have already been traced to Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, and Manly, after extensive research, claims he has traced at least 25 $1000 bonds to the Republican National Committee.

Will H. Hays, who preceded Adams as National chairman, has been called to appear before the committee as a result of the latest turn of events. Fred Upham, former treasurer of the Republican National Committee, mentioned in Adams' wireless, is now dead.

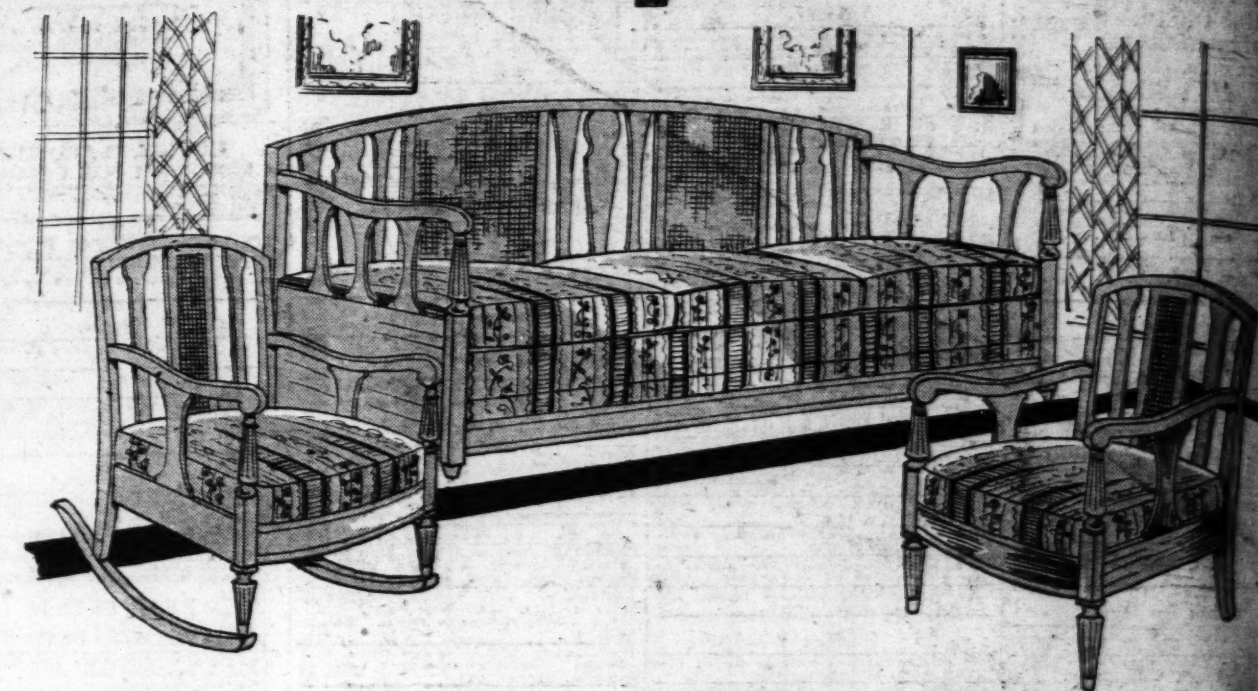

TELEPHONE-COIN BOXES STOLEN

A man posing as an employee of the Bell Telephone Co. who has removed pay phones with their coin boxes from 11 stores, is being sought by police. The man rides about in a Dodge sedan, one window of which is broken. He carries an old telephone which caused storekeepers to give credence to his pose. He installs the phone he carries after removing the coin-box phones.

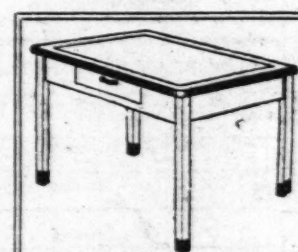

Officers of the telephone company said they had discovered the man's operations when faulty connections he had made on the telephones he installed, caused trouble men to be sent out to investigate.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR.

The jewel case had been opened with a steel chisel after being fastened with a poker. This leads Vance to the theory that the real murderer had not opened it, but someone after him, someone who was hiding in the closet when the murder was committed. That man, he thinks, was Skeel, whose fingerprints were found in the apartment of the strangled Margaret Odell. Markham ridicules the theory and Vance painstakingly explains his reasons for thinking the crime not one of robbery but the work of a highly intelligent man who wanted the girl out of the way.

CHAPTER XXV.

(Wednesday, Sept. 12; evening)

W HEN Vance finished speaking, there was a long silence.

Markham, impressed by the other's earnestness, sat in a brown study. His ideas had been shaken. The theory of Skeel's guilt, to which he had clung from the moment of the identification of the fingerprints, had, it must be admitted, not entirely satisfied him, although he had been able to suggest no alternative.

Now Vance had categorically repudiated this theory and at the same time had advanced another which, despite its indefiniteness, had nevertheless taken into account all the physical points of the case, and Markham, at first antagonistic, had found himself, almost against his will, becoming more and more sympathetic to this new point of view.

"Damn it, Vance," he said, "I'm not in the least convinced by your theatrical theory. And yet I feel a curious uncertainty of plausibility in your analysis."

"He turned sharply, and scrutinized the other steadfastly for a moment."

"Look here! Have you anyone in mind as the protagonist of the drama you've outlined?"

"For my word, I haven't the slightest notion as to who killed the lady," Vance assured him. "But if you are ever to find the murderer, you must look for a shrewd, superior man with means, of iron, who was in imminent danger of being irretrievably ruined by the girl—a man of inherent cruelty and vindictiveness; a supreme egoist; a fatalist; more or less; and I'm inclined to believe—something of a madman."

"Mad?"

"Oh, not a lunatic—just a madman, a perfectly normal, logical, calculating madman—same as you and I and Van here. Only, our hobbies are harmless, d'ye see. This chap's mania is outside your preposterous reverend law."

"That's why you're after him, isn't it? His aberration was stamp-collecting, or golf, or you would give him a second thought. But his perfectly rational penchant for eliminating delicate ladies who bothered him filled you with horror; it's not your hobby. Consequently, you have a hot yearning to flay him alive."

"I'll admit," said Markham coolly, "that a homicidal mania is my idea of madness."

"But he didn't have a homicidal mania, Markham old thing. You miss all the fine distinctions in psychology. This man was annoyed by a certain person, and set to work, masterfully and reasonably, to do away with the source of his annoyance. And he did it with surpassing cleverness."

"To be sure, his act was a bit grisly. But when, if ever, you get your hands on him, you'll be amazed to find how normal he is. And able, too—oh, able no end."

Again Markham leaned into a long thoughtful silence. At last he spoke.

"The only trouble with your ingenious deductions is that they don't accord with the known circumstances of the case. And facts, my dear Vance, are still regarded by a few of us old-fashioned lawyers as more or less conclusive."

"Why this needless confession of your short-comings?" inquired Vance whimsically. Then, after a moment: "Let me have the facts which appear to you antagonistic to my deductions."

"Well, there are only four men of the type you describe who could have had any remote reason for murdering the Odell woman. Heath's scouts went into her history pretty thoroughly, and for over two years—that is, since her appearance in the 'Follies'—the only welcome ones into her apartment have been Mannix, Doctor Lindquist, Poo Cleaver, and, of course, Spotswoode. The Canary was a bit exclusive, it seems; and no other man got near enough to her even to be considered as a possible murderer."

"It appears, then, that you have a complete quartet to draw on?" Vance's tone was apathetic. "What do you crave—a regiment?"

"No," answered Markham patiently. "I crave only one logical possibility. But Mannix was through with the girl a year ago; Cleaver and Spotswoode both have water-tight alibis; and that leaves only Doctor Lindquist, whom I can't exactly picture as a stranger and burglar, despite his inaccessibility. Moreover, he, too, has an alibi; and it may be a genuine one."

Vance wagged his head.

"There's something positively pathetic about the childlike faith of the legal mind."

"It does cling to rationality at times, doesn't it?" observed Markham.

"My dear fellow!" Vance rebuked him. "The presumption implied in that remark is most im-modest. If you could distinguish between rationality and irrationality you wouldn't be a lawyer—you'd be a god. . . . No; you're going at this thing the wrong way. The real factors in the case are not what you call the known circumstances, but the unknown quantities—the human x's, so to speak—the personalities, or natures, of your quartet."

He lit a fresh cigarette, and lay back, closing his eyes.

"Tell me what you know of these four cavalieri serventi—you say Heath has turned in his report. Who were their natures? What do they eat for breakfast? Are they susceptible to poison-ivy? . . . Let's have Spotswoode's dossier first. Do you know anything about him?"

"In a general way," returned Markham. "Old Puritan stock, I believe—governors, burgomasters, a few successful traders. All Yankee forebears—no intermixture. As a matter of fact, Spotswoode represents the oldest and hardest of the New England aristocracy, although I imagine the old-family wine of the Puritans has become pretty well diluted by now. His affair with the Odell girl is hardly consonant with the older Puritan's mortification of the flesh."

"It's wholly consonant, though, with the psychological reactions which are apt to follow the inhibitions produced by such mortification," submitted Vance. "But what does he do? Whence cometh his lucre?"

"His father manufactured automobile accessories, made a fortune at it, and left the business to him. He tinkers at it, but not seriously, though I believe he has designed a few improvements."

"I do hope the hideous cut-glass olla for holding paper bouquets is not one of them. The man who invented that tawdry decoration is capable of any fiendish crime."

"It couldn't have been Spotswoode then," said Markham tolerantly. "For he certainly can't be one of them. The man who invented that tawdry decoration is capable of any fiendish crime."

"On that, at least, we agree," conceded Vance. "And that's all you know of the gentleman?"

"I think that's all, except that he married a well-to-do woman—a daughter of a Southern Senator, I believe."

"Doesn't help any. . . . And now, let's have Mannix's history."

Markham referred to a typewritten sheet of paper.

"Both parents immigrants—came over in the steerage. Original name Mannikiewicz, or something like that. Born on the East Side; learned the fur business in his father's retail shop in Heaster street; worked for the Sagfrasco Cloak Co., and got to be factory foreman."

"Saved his money, and sweetened the pot by manipulating real estate; then went into the fur business for himself, and steadily worked up to his present opulent state. Public school, and night in commercial college. Married in 1900 and divorced a year later. Lives a gay life—helps support the night clubs, but never gets drunk. I suppose he comes under the head of a spender and wine opener. Has invested some money in musical comedies, and always has a stage beauty in tow. Runs to blondes."

"Not very revealing," sighed Vance. "The city is full of Mannixes. . . . What did you garner in connection with our medic?"

"The city has its quota of Doctor Lindquist, too, I fear. He was brought up in a small Middle West town; French, and Magyar extraction; took his M. D. from the Ohio State Medical, practiced in Chicago—some shady business there, but never convicted—came to Albany and got in on the X-ray machine craze; invented a breast-pump and formed a stock company—made a small fortune out of it; went to Vienna for two years."

"Ah, the Freudian motif!"

"Returned to New York, and opened a private sanitarium; charged outrageous prices, and thereby endeared himself to the new rich. Has been at the forefront of the process ever since. Was defendant in a breach-of-promises suit some years ago, but the case was settled out of court. He's not married."

"He wouldn't be," commented Vance. "Such gentility never are. Interesting summary, I'm tempted to develop a psycho-neurosis and let Ambrose treat me. I do so want to know him better. And where—oh, where—was this egregious healer at the moment of our erring sister's demise? Ah, who can tell, my Markham: who knows—'who knows'?"

"In any event, I don't think he was murdering any one."

Climb Down!

Luther Burbank, in his wildest moments, never thought of using a ladder to change him to bean.

Aside to beginners. The rules call for filling in the second rung with a word that differs from Lima by a single letter—as, for instance, lime. Without transposing the remaining letters climb down until the words change to bean. Maybe you can find a shorter route than the one we print tomorrow, but remember to use only good words.

Here's an answer to our last one as an example: 1, hue; 2, cue; 3, cut; 4, cot; 5, coy; 6, cry.

CHANEL'S crystal chokers, each crystal set in sterling silver, are one of the smartest vogues in evening jewelry. Chanel also sponsors chokers of Chinese colored crystals, which she wears with which the necklace is worn; hence many synthetic emerald, ruby and amethyst chokers are seen tonight. Sometimes two or three colors are combined in one choker, or colored stones are used with clear crystal.

New shades in suede slip-ons keep glove fashions quite abreast with the times. Imported models, beige worn, feature such distinctly new tones as peach, champagne, wild rose and rachel.

A mere shrug of the shoulder may be expressive of many things, but it could show nothing more interesting than the latest shoulder pins, which are formed of the most exquisite pearl bead flowers, with crystal leaves. The very pin which serves in the evening to adorn the shoulder of a dainty dance frock is equally in place as a boutonniere on the daytime costume or the trimming on a small felt hat.

Time is precious, which probably accounts for the fashion value of hats with clocks. A trifle wider than those previously worn, these open-work clockings appear on stockings of the sheerest designs, gossamer weaves. In evening wear, open-work meshes are quite the thing, especially those with a wee dot in the center of each tiny web and long, slender clocks extending well up the leg.

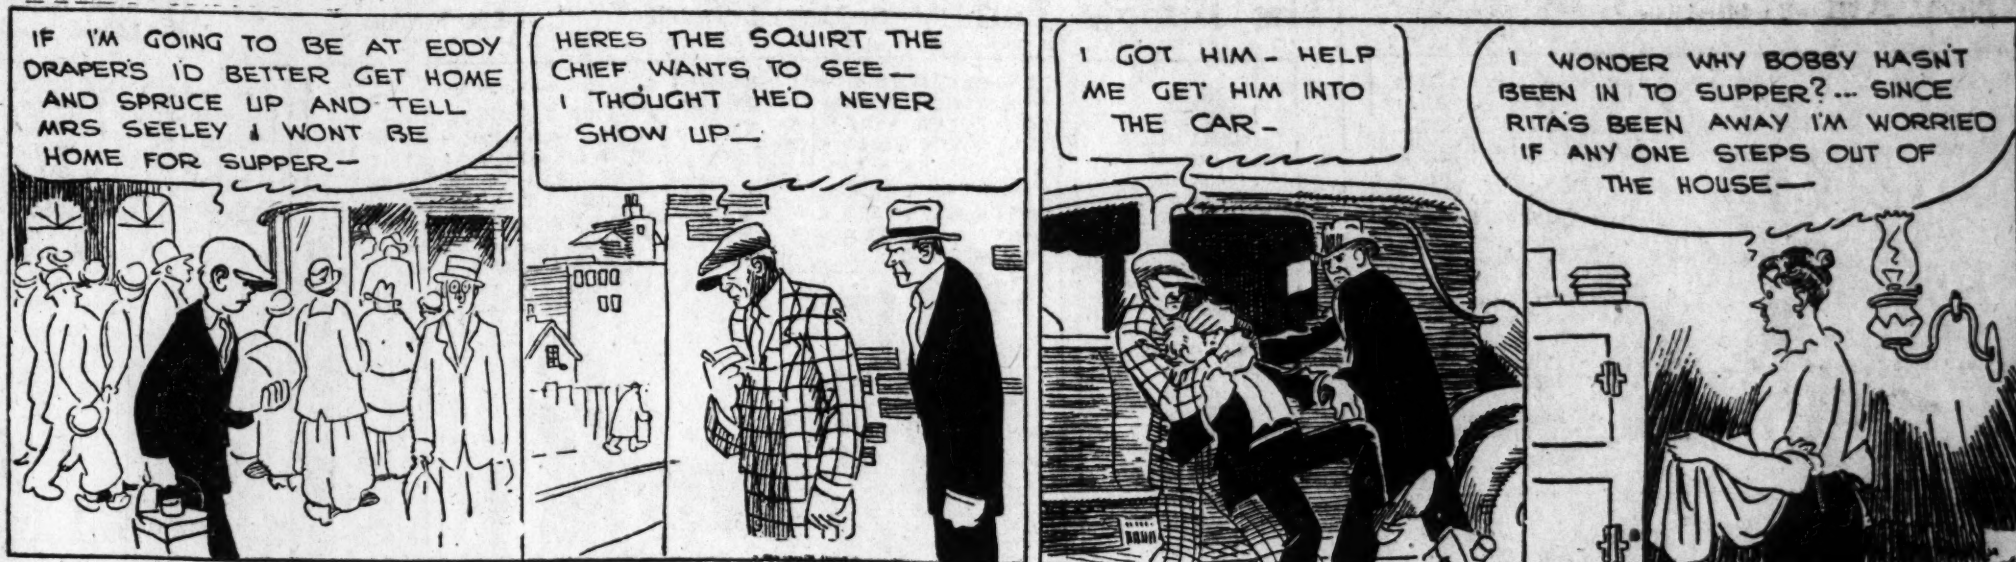

The storm center of rainy weather requirements is to be found in the ornamental new rubbers, modeled after the Russian boot. Various color combinations are to be had, the boot of one shade and the top of a contrasting one. Regular rubbers, imported from France, are to be had in such smart shades as jade, Chinese red, bright blue and light gray. Galoshes, in colors as well as in black, are tall and trim.

HICKMAN SENTENCED TO HANG ON APRIL 27

Rehearing Denied Kidnap-Slayer of Child and His Mother Is Ordered to San Quentin Prison.

TWO DAYS ALLOWED FOR FILING APPEAL

Youth Goes to Trial Again Tomorrow With Welby Hunt for Holdup Murder of Druggist.

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 14.—William Edward Hickman today was sentenced to death for the kidnapping and murder of 13-year-old Marian Parker. The execution was set for Friday, April 27.

Hickman will be hanged unless his attorneys are successful in an appeal to the State Supreme Court. Two witnesses were placed on the witness stand to establish the crime and the degree of murder. Hickman was ordered to turn over to the Sheriff at once the prisoner, who had stood erect to hear his sentence pronounced, dropped heavily into his seat after the last word came from Judge Trabucco's lips.

Two Witnesses Testify. County Autopsy Surgeon A. Wagner testified to his examination of the mutilated body of the Parker child. Earl Herman, Chief of Detectives, repeated the testimony of Hickman's sanity trial concerning the youth's confession. Before passing sentence, Judge Trabucco denied the defense motion for a new trial and also overruled a motion alleging the Court was without jurisdiction to pronounce judgment. The Court overruled an objection by the defense to the admission of any evidence fixing the degree of the crime.

The disposition of Hickman's kidnapping conviction was left to the court by the State Board of Prison directors. No notice of appeal of the conviction was filed by Jerome Walsh, who indicated last week he would make. After the session ended, pointed out that he has two days in which to take this action.

Judge Pronounces Sentence. "For the crime of murder," Judge Trabucco read in pronouncing sentence, "the offense of which you have been convicted, to wit, murder, the first degree, that you be sentenced by the Sheriff of Los Angeles County to the warden of the State Prison at San Quentin, to be there executed and put to death on Friday, April 27, 1932, in the manner provided by the laws of the State of California, and may God have mercy on your soul." On the kidnapping conviction, the court sentenced Hickman to be confined in the State Prison at San Quentin for the term prescribed by law, which term was fixed by the board of prison directors for the purpose of carrying out this sentence.

Alfred Hickman, brother of the condemned youth, was in court to hear the sentence imposed. Held for Further Trial. The order of the court that Hickman be sent to San Quentin, there to await hanging, will not be carried out until completion of his trial, together with Welby Hunt, for the killing of C. Ivy Thomas, in an attempt to rob a drug store, Christmas eve, 1931. This case goes to trial tomorrow. Hunt's attorney has indicated that he will not plead guilty, but will throw himself on the mercy of the court.

Hickman has entered two pleas in the Thomas case, "not guilty" and "not guilty by reason of insanity." Mrs. Eva Hickman received news of her son's sentence with outward calm. The news was telephoned her at her hotel by Alfred Hickman, who was in the courtroom. However, he was silent after the brief procedure was finished, he was smiling and as he returned to pass for a cameraman in the courtroom. That appeal, he declared, was based almost wholly on contention that the new law governing insanity defenses is unconstitutional. Under this law that Hickman tried.
